SOCRED SOLONS SCORED; PLEDGES GO UNFULFILLED

Charging that the budget brought into the legislature by Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer on Monday is the "very negation of all that was promised by the government before the election, and is the antithesis of Social Credit," George H. Van Allen, K.C., Liberal, Edmonton, in continuing the budget debate on Wednesday moved a vote of non-confidence in the government.

In plain language Mr. Van Allen scored the government for failure to implement election promises and flayed the administration for the treatment accorded the taxpayers.

TAX ON FOOD

Warming to his theme, Mr. Van Allen charged that "this budget sells the poor of Alberta into the bondage of the bondholders," and contended that "this budget is a tax on food, clothing and shelter," and "not as a means of deflation the budget would "decrease instead of increase purchasing power."

In ringing tones he also declared that "this budget is the antithesis of Social Credit."

Mr. Van Allen's non-confidence motion was moved as an amendment to the main motion being debated, the motion under which the budget is brought in. This formal motion reads: "That Mr. Speaker do now leave the chair and that the assembly do immediately resolve itself into committee of supply to consider of the supply to be granted to His Majesty."

Mr. Van Allen moved that this motion be voided and the following substituted:

SUBSTITUTIONS

"That the motion be amended by striking off all the words after 'that' where it first appears in the first line thereof, and by substituting therefore—

"Considering that this government was elected to distribute increased purchasing power by means of basic dividends of $25.00 per month to be given free to all adult bona fide citizens of the province; to take the cost of government and to decrease taxation.

"And considering that the estimates now submitted disclose an increase in the cost of government of $837,250.35 in expendi-

BRITISH NAVY ESTIMATES UP BY $50,000,000

Huge Increase Seen in Figures Set for Rearmament

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 4.—The navy estimates for 1936 issued today were higher by £9,880,000—nearly $50,000,000—over the estimates for 1935, but excluding supplementary estimates last year of £4,850,000, or $23,250,000. The net total of the 1936 estimates is £69,630,000, roughly $348,150,000.

This increase is only the beginning. It does not cover any additional cost for the armaments plan outlined in yesterday's white paper. Nor do today's estimates make any provision for the 1936 new construction program. Supplementary estimates will be issued later to provide both for the 1936 new construction program and for the coming year's "white paper" plan.

NEW CONSTRUCTION

Of the nearly £10,000,000 increase, £9,645,000 is required to make progress with new construction already authorized.

This addition is required, it is explained by Lord Monsell, the first lord of the admiralty, in an accompanying memorandum, partly because the program for 1934 and 1935 were larger than those of the preceding years and partly because the new designs of the 1935 program were laid down earlier and the construction of cruisers of the 1933 and 1934 programs is proceeding more rapidly than was originally anticipated.

There is an increase of £1,082,000

ROME LOOKING FOR SURRENDER HAILE SELASSIE

Long-Range Artillery Bombarding Remnants of Ethiopian Army

By JACQUES BARRE

Copyright 1936, by Havas News Agency

WITH THE ITALIAN HIGH COMMAND IN NORTHERN ETHIOPIA, March 4—Emperor Haile Selassie's surrender to Italy's victorious armies was regarded an imminent certainty here today.

Long-range Italian artillery today was mercilessly pounding the fleeing remnants of Ras Imru's army, routed in a four-day battle near the Eritrean border while other Italian forces smashed the forces of Ras Seyoum and Ras Kassa in the Tembien mountains. Twenty thousand Ethiopians were reported either killed or wounded in the battle with Ras Imru.

Mopping-up operations are all that remain on this front, it was stated here. Four thousand Ethiopians, trapped by converging Italian armies are methodically being wiped out or taken prisoner by the Fascist troops, army spokesmen said.

The Italians are convinced Ethiopia will admit defeat and capitulate before the Fascist legions begin offensive against southern armies, which the Italians do not regard as important threats to the success of their conquest.

Military subjugation of Ethiopia henceforth may be regarded as an established fact, Italian general declared.

PRINCE WON'T FORM CABINET

By GLENN BARR

TOKYO, March 4. — Emperor Hirohito, seeking a government to replace the ministry of Premier Keisuke Okada, shattered by a military uprising, commanded Prince Fumimaro Konoye to form a new cabinet today, but the prince declined the premiership.

ANOTHER OIL FIELD MOOTED

A search for oil will be made this year near Athabasca, by a syndicate headed by Alfred Hinds, former president of the Meriland Oil Company, it was learned today.

The syndicate has been granted filing permits on 20,000 acres of lands in the Athabasca district, according to na announcement made by Hon. C. C. Ross, minister of lands and mines.

A drilling program is planned and during the summer tests will be carried out.

The land in question is near the town of Athabasca.

Application was made under the new permit regulations recently adopted by the provincial government and involves an initial revenue to the government of about $2,000 on the basis of 10 cents an acre.

Geological surveys have been carried out in the area and are said to have disclosed presence of oil-bearing lands. The Calgary syndicate is believed to be the first to take advantage of the new regulations.

REPORT KING EDWARD HAS PICKED MATE

But Marriage With Former Spanish Princess Impossible

MADRID, March 4.—The newspaper Ya in a dispatch from Paris Tuesday quoted "monarchists residing in Paris" as saying King Edward had "already selected the mate who will share the throne with him and when the selection is announced it will be a real sensation in Spain."

Observers took this as a reference to the possible of a match between the British King and the Infanta Maria Christina, 25-year-old daughter of former King Alfonso of Spain.

LONDON, March 4.—It was authoritatively stated last night that a marriage between King Edward and the former Infanta Maria Christina of Spain, hinted at by a Spanish newspaper, is "impossible". Under British law the King cannot wed a Catholic.

Liberals In Defending U.S. Trade Pact Hand Bennett Ghosts of Past

OTTAWA, March 4.—A short, stocky man who came to Canada 34 years ago as an immigrant boy, stood in the House of Commons Tuesday and dramatically waved a letter high above his head.

It was Finance Minister Dunning and the letter had been written in November, 1934, by Conservative leader Bennett as his basis of objection to the Washington for a trade treaty and published early last fall during the election campaign.

Facing the Conservative leader across the green-carpeted aisle, the finance minister concluded a 40-minute defence of the Canadian-American trade treaty by referring to the letter as "a truly historic document" and adding, "the man who wrote it is forever stopped from criticising the treaty which this government entered into."

While Liberal members pounded their desk in approbation, the finance minister used the 1934 letter in an effort to show the Conservative leader offered Washington many of the terms embodied in the treaty which he now attacked.

The treaty was before the house most of the day, under attack by Conservatives and defended by Liberals. Division of the ratification motion will not come until later in the week, judging by a long list of eligible speakers in the whips' hands. Reconstruction leader Stevens supported the treaty.

British Newspaper Caustic in Comment of Socred Morass

LONDON, March 4.— Under the caption, "Alberta's Discredit Panacea," the Daily Telegraph editorially remarked today that even for believers in Social Credit "little vision was required to see that no such plan was workable in the restricted area of a single Canadian province."

Very seldom, the newspaper added, "is a fantastic experiment in finance so quickly robbed of all attraction with such small damage to the general well-being. Alberta is left to extricate itself from the financial morass by methods as old as taxpathering itself. Before it has done so, Social Credit will probably be finally discredited among the gullible citizens who believed they had found a new way to pay old debts and make themselves rich in the process."

League Strengthens Threat Of Sanctions

GENEVA, March 4.—The League of Nations strengthened its threat of sanctions against Italy today while awaiting a reply from Italy and Ethiopia to the conciliation committee's plea for East African peace.

The sanctions committee of 18 assembled to instruct its technical committee to proceed with a drafting of a detailed plan for enforcement of an oil embargo, to have it ready in the event the campaign for conciliation failed.

Whether the oil embargo plans ever would be used, league sources said, depended primarily on Premier Mussolini's answer to the League appeal for immediate opening of negotiations for an end to hostilities and a definite East African settlement.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arranged to go to Paris late today and to continue on to London by plane.

Italy and Ethiopia had one week to reply to the peace appeal, the conciliation committee to meet again March 10 to consider the replies.

PREMIER ASKS DOUGLAS TO CHANGE VIEW

Seeks Reconsideration of Decision to Quit Work

Premier William Aberhart on Wednesday wired Major C. H. Douglas at London asking him to reconsider his decision to terminate his contract as principal reconstruction adviser to the Alberta government. "I would prefer that Major Douglas would not insist on termination of his contract," said the premier.

"Major Douglas is the originator of the Social Credit theory and while he probably did not take any great part in outlining the idea to the Alberta people he should be allowed to have the opportunity of showing the world his ideas are true.

"The thing I would regret would be that the people of this province or the west would get the idea that because he feels it impossible to come that this is the end of what his theory is not practical.

"My whole desire is to see it put over in the best possible manner and people must not feel that because we have had a little difficulty in getting our expert that we want to make things more difficult or that the plan will be dropped."

He said that no other expert had been considered. If Major Douglas did not come he would do the job himself, or would engage any other expert that was approved.

He said he would continue to carry out his plans with the co-operation of the back-benchers and government at large.

While declining to divulge the actual contents of the message, he said that he was sure Major Douglas would do so when the cable was received. The cable was sent following full discussion in caucus.

BRITISH DEFENCE PLANS ANNOUNCED

TO MODERNIZE, EXPAND EVERY FIGHTING UNIT

If Great Britain Must Arm She Will Arm in Such a Manner That the World Will See She Is Prepared.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 4.—Modernization and expansion of the navy, the army and the air force, together with plans for mobilizing commercial industry for the production of implements of war, was announced to an anxious Great Britain Tuesday.

The government's white paper on defence, presented to parliament Tuesday, follows reports from nearly every nation in the world of increasing armaments and improved fighting services. It was taken as England's answer to those nations who appear unwilling to join in disarmament plans and peace treaties.

STAND BY EMPIRE

And the white paper was all-embracing. It seemed to say, in effect: "If Great Britain must arm Great Britain will arm in such a manner that the world will see she is prepared to stand by her Empire, to stand by her international commitments."

So far-reaching and flexible are the plans that any attempt at stating the cost of the scheme is only a hazarded estimate. But £300,000,000 (about $1,500,000,000) is a round figure for the expense taken over a three-year period.

TWO CAPITAL SHIPS

For the navy there are to be two new capital ships next year, an increase of 6,000 in personnel, a steady replacement in other vessels.

For the army there will be four new battalions of infantry, artillery equipment will be modernized and increased and territorial forces will be eventually reconditioned.

Anti-aircraft defences of England will be strengthened and the army's housing system will be improved.

INCREASE AIR FORCE

The air force home defence first line strength will be increased to 1,750 planes and 12 additional squadrons for Empire defence and the regular army air force will be reorganized.

LEAGUE AGAIN URGES PEACE IN ETHIOPIA

But Fascist Armies Continue to Rout Hapless Negus Forces

By The Canadian Press

A pessimistic League of Nations committee again urged peace between Italy and Ethiopia Tuesday, but Fascist armies continued to rout Haile Selassie's hapless warriors and Premier Mussolini reiterated his independence of Geneva.

The League committee of 13 gave Italy and Ethiopia one week to reply to its appeal for peace. It will meet next March 10 and, if the answers are "no," further sanctions against Italy may be applied under Britain's leadership.

READY TO PARTICIPATE

It was understood that all oil-producing nations belonging to the League, except Venezuela, were ready to participate in an oil embargo, provided the peace move failed.

A council of Mussolini's ministers in a sweeping decree made all big banks into public credit institutions, removing their private status.

The League's appeal for peace was received coldly but Fascist officials announced they were giving it close study.

CONFER MARCH 18

Mussolini announced he would confer here beginning March 18 with Austrian and Hungarian leaders on Danubian policies and rapped what he described as an attempt in Paris — although not French-approved—to "solve the so-called Danubian question without Italy."

Presumably he referred to attempts of Premier Hodza of Czechoslovakia to create a new Danubian lineup, with Soviet Russia guaranteeing Austria's independence instead of Italy.

Dispatches from Italy's northern army said the sole remaining complete Ethiopian army in that area, under Ras Imru, was routed in the western sector after a three-day battle.

GERMAN ENVOY VISITS ROME

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL
Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press

ROME, March 4. — Germany's minister for foreign affairs, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, was en route to Rome today, it was learned authoritatively, as Premier Mussolini turned to a fresh diplomatic offensive against his European adversaries.

Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, powerful Austrian vice-chancellor, also was coming from Vienna for Italo-Austrian conversations, interpreted as the first step in a Fascist campaign to end the threat of sanctions against Italy.

News of the German foreign minister's visit, simultaneously with that of Von Starhemberg, added growing volume to evidence that an Italo-German rapprochment—possible resurrection of the pre-war triple alliance—was impending.

HEAVY TOLL OF BIRD LIFE

WINNIPEG, March 4—The march of civilization has taken its toll of bird life in Winnipeg. Many sparrows are dying of pneumonia contracted from basking in the tropical warmth of central heat, Dr. Fred Cadham, professor of bacteriology at the University of Manitoba stated Tuesday.

Unaffected by blizzards and the coldest of winters, the birds fared well until two years ago when central heating was introduced to the city on a large scale.

Constant preening in these steam-heated man-hole Turkish baths provided by grated covers of ground ventilators, the sparrows caught cold when moving out into a change of temperature, he said. Pneumonia, and death followed.

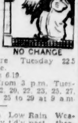

Advice To Farmers

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 4. — Premier Hepburn, a successful farmer, advises Ontario agriculturists who are finding it difficult to market their bean crops to get out the old farm cooker, boil the beans and feed them to hogs and cattle. He advised that course to cut down the surplus.

Pioneer Canadian Lumberman Dies

QUEBEC, March 4—John G. Levie, "grand old man" of the Canadian lumber trade, died Tuesday on board S.S. Aurania, shortly before the boat docked at London. Mr. Levie was reported to have died from heart failure. He was "about 70" members of his family said but was always reticent as to his age.

Mr. Levie was the oldest exporter of timber from the Dominion, and had been connected with the lumber trade for more than half a century.

Big Roundup Of Former Felons

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 4—A big roundup of former felons continued Tuesday as police studied a growing accumulation of information about former convicts now living in St. Paul.

By nightfall 185 persons had complied with a new city ordinance requiring them to register, be photographed and fingerprinted.

Detective Lieutenant John Tierney, supervising the procedure initiated by H. E. Warren, commissioner of public safety, as an effort to prevent further crimes such as the Bremer kidnapping, said no "big time" criminals were among those reporting.

THREE-POWER NAVAL TREATY IS PREDICTED

Will Be Initialed Wednesday or Thursday is London Forecast

Copyright 1936, by Havas News Agency

LONDON, March 4.—A naval treaty probably will be initialed next Wednesday or Thursday by Great Britain, the United States and France, it was predicted last night.

The prediction was made after a compromise, effected between the United States and France on tonnage limitation for capital ships, reportedly solved one of the main issues hitherto dead-locking the current conference. The compromise provided that construction of battleships to a 35,000-ton maximum be observed until 1940, it was understood.

Italy's refusal to sign an agreement as long as sanctions remain operative precludes her participation. The three-power pact, however, is expected to be endorsed by Germany and the Soviet Union through separate bilateral agreements with Britain.

It was predicted the final three-power agreement will feature safety clauses permitting the signatories eventually to scale their construction to that of Italy and Japan.

U.S. Withholding Building Plan

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The United States government was reported authoritatively last night to be withholding decision on whether to construct a new super-battleship to replace the U.S.S. Arizona, pending the final outcome of the London naval conference.

The United States now has seven (out of a total of 15) battleships that will be over age under provisions of existing treaties by the end of the year, and is authorized, under the pacts, to replace two of them after Jan. 1, 1937. If a new treaty should extend the life of battleships six years, however, all seven would again advance to the category of underage ships.

C. P. R. READY FOR FURTHER SNOWSLIDES

Traffic on Main Line Restored After Tragedy Which Took 16 Lives

REVELSTOKE, B.C., March 4.—Traffic on the Canadian Pacific railway's main line through the towering Rocky mountains of British Columbia was restored last night but officials kept a wary eye on the weather lest rising temperatures and rain bring a repetition of slides which Monday claimed 16 lives and sent five men to hospital.

Section gangs, equipment and extra work trains were held at strategic points as a precaution in case of further slides in this steep grade "pusher" district.

INQUEST TODAY

Meanwhile preparations were being made for an inquest Wednesday and resulting thorough investigation of the tragedy yesterday when an engine tender tore loose to rocket down a two per cent grade east of here killing and injuring more than a score.

Death of D. D. Cossar, district master mechanic of Revelstoke division, who succumbed today to burns and shock received in the accident, brought the death toll to 16. Five injured in hospital here were expected to recover.

LITTLE IS KNOWN

Little is yet known of the actual accident. Attending physicians have forbidden even company officials to question the survivors, who are suffering from shock as well as broken limbs and burns.

The victims were all trapped between walls of a 15-foot high snow cut. They were standing in and around an engine which had been put back on the tracks when the locomotive's tender, being hauled up the grade by another engine, slipped its cables and starting on its death dealing ride.

Men working on a ledge above the cut heard the runaway tender but believed its "whistling" approach was another slide in the darkness until they saw a dark blot careen into the cut below them on screaming wheels to wreak destruction on their fellow workers.

er, predicted the agreement would ruin Canadian fruit and vegetable farmers if the government did not invoke dumping duties to stop exports from the United States.

The treaty was discussed until late in the evening when the House turned to estimates of the revenue department.

The finance minister said the treaty was signed by the government because it was believed to be in the best interests of Canadians and Americans and a start in the direction of promoting mutually-advantageous trade across the border.

Canada retained full power to raise or lower the intermediate tariff conceded to the United States, Mr. Dunning said, and "we propose to deal with it in accordance with the best judgment of this government and in the interests of the people of Canada."

TURNOVER TAX IS FORECAST

REGINA, March 4.—A sales or turnover tax to be imposed in Saskatchewan some time in the future was forecast Tuesday afternoon in the first budget brought down by Premier Patterson since he relinquished the provincial treasurer's post six years ago.

It was one of two changes in taxation anounced, the other being of a more immediate nature but of less consequence, namely the repeal of the Wild Lands Taxation Act.

It is the intention of the government, however, to enact other legislation that will give authority to the municipalities to levy a wild lands tax.

Mr. Patterson's address indicated a deficit for the present fiscal year ending April 30 of probably slightly less than $1,000,000.

Hope Revived In U.S. Wheat Belt For Crop In 1935

GARDEN CITY, Kas., March 4.—Greening wheat fields in the southwest bread basket revived hopes of farmers Tuesday for a 1936 wheat crop.

In southwestern Kansas, normally heart of the winter wheat belt, but last year centre of the dust bowl, farmers reported wheat, earlier believed dead, was pushing through the dust-covered fields.

The consensus was that the wheat had an excellent chance to survive and with timely spring rains would produce at least half a crop.

Tom Armstrong, Kansas state grain inspector, said after a trip over the state, that 75 per cent of the wheat had survived the cold winter and 50 per cent was in good condition.

SAYS SHAKEUP IN FISHERIES BRANCH NEED

B. C. Member Declares Officials Like Civil Servants, Asleep

OTTAWA, March 4. — Allan W. Neil, the one independent member in the house, told the minister of fisheries last night it was time his department was shaken up, not only in Ottawa, but in the Vancouver offices.

Officials of the fishery department, the Comox-Alberni member said, were like all civil servants — they were asleep, had fallen into an official rut and sometimes were mere party hacks. The average civil servant, said the British Columbian, who once worked for the government himself, was opposed to any change because it meant trouble and labor. The idea seemed to be to write form letters and stall off anyone who had a grievance.

NEEDED WAKENING UP

"The department of fisheries, repeated Mr. Neil, needed to be wakened up and he did not blame the present minister or his predecessor.

The British Columbian illustrated how the government service grew in this way: He told the house if a man was hired to shovel snow today, the chances would be that in 10 years he would have an office, be called the superintendent general of snow-shovelling, have a deputy, a private secretary, a purchasing agent and other employees.

FIRE WORTHLESS ONE

When the time came for retrenchment and economy, men were never fired from the government service, Mr. Neil said, because it tended to multiply itself. He protested against the fisheries department which he said increased salaries this year and cut down necessary services. He suggested a few worthless employees be fired rather than services cut. The Vancouver office was over-staffed but the field work was suffering for lack of money.

CHINESE RED ARMY SWEEPS INTO SHANSI

Fears Felt for Score of Canadian and U.S. Missionaries

SHANGHAI, March 4—A Chinese communist army swept into Shansi province last night and grave fears were aroused for more than a score of Canadian and United States missionaries believed to be in the path of the invasion.

New Sino-Japanese complications also were threatened by the Red attack from the southwest into the east-central province.

ARMY MOBILIZED

An army was hurriedly mobilized at Taiyuan, capital of the province, by the aged war lord, Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, and a virtual state of martial law reigned.

Two battalions of Shansi province troops already have been ambushed and wiped out by the Reds, said advices reaching authorities in Taiyuan. The general of the defending troops killed himself to avoid capture.

NO WORD RECEIVED

No word has been received from 21 Canadian and American missionaries stationed at Fenchow, 60 miles southwest of Taiyuan, since last Saturday. This section is near the district through which the Reds are believed sweeping.

The foreigners are on the staff of the American board mission at Fenchow. Consular authorities of the United States warned them Saturday to be ready to evacuate but almost immediately communication lines broke down and their fate remained a matter of conjecture last night.

SOCREDS ASK MORATORIUM ON ALL DEBTS

In addition the Willingdon group is forwarding a protest against an amendment in the Municipal Districts Act introduced at the present session, which would prevent taxpayers in arrears from being candidates for municipal office.

A third resolution calling for the lowering of High School examination fees to not more than $1 per student has also been forwarded for government action.

CARLOAD SCRAP LIKELY IS SOLD FOR NICKEL ORE

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, March 4.—A carload of "nickel" shipped from Toronto bound for Athens, Greece, via New York, excited the suspicions of the officials of the national revenue, who suspected the real destination to be Italy and the nickel to be contraband under the sanctions. The car was cut out at Brockville and investigated. Instead of nickel the revenue officials found nothing but scrap iron of a very poor quality.

The shippers were notified and amended the documents, giving the car a New York destination which took it out of the control of the national revenue officers, some of whom suspect the sale of alleged nickel to Italian agents in Greece, who will be getting scrap iron instead of nickel. No confirmation can be obtained of the suspicion, but no proper explanation has been vouchsafed by the shippers. The change of destination ends the investigation by the national revenue

MAYOR 'GERRY' M'GEER HEARS OF OWN ALLEGED DEMISE IN LETTER FROM NOTED AUTHOR

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, March 4.—Mayor "Gerry" McGeer learned Tuesday of his own alleged demise, and fell back on old Mark Twain wheeze that the report of his death was greatly exaggerated. Rex Beach, the famous American author wrote Mr. McGeer to explain that when he was in Palm Beach a Bridge River mining man had told him that Mr. McGeer had passed away. Mr. Beach immediately wrote letters of condolence to the family.

Immediately after posting the letters Mr. Beach received a letter from Mayor McGeer which at first he thought was a voice from the grave, but he was convinced when he heard of the Vancouver Mayor's visit to Washington.

"My relief at knowing you are alive and well completely dissipates any embarrassment I may feel at the apparent stupidity of such a mistake—Mrs. McGeer has told me that I'm crazy—when I finished your letter I had a good jolt of Scotch and drank to your continued health."

ALBERTA HAS PAIR LOSSES AND 2 WINS

The feature match selected by the gallery was the British Columbia-Manitoba affair that was close until the last few ends when Ken Watson's Winnipeg four pulled away.

HAS WEAK START

After a weak start British Columbia came back slowly and after eight ends was only one behind, but again Bill Whalen's Vancouver four faltered before the steady curling of Manitoba.

New Brunswick overwhelmed Alberta in the morning play, counting in every end but two. "Red" Shives' crew from Campbellton started out with a rush, counting 2-1-3-1-1-2 before a reply came from G. Wanless' Edmonton rink in the seventh end when they scored a single.

PLACE STONES EARLY

In the ninth end, the Albertans then placed their stones early, kept them guarded and finished with three. The end scores showed New Brunswick with a sprinkling of two and three-enders.

The loss gave Alberta two wins and two losses in four starts. Behind the Albertans came Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Quebec, each without a victory against four losses.

TORONTO, March 4.—With six rinks tied for the leadership, 10 quartets of curlers set out this afternoon to weaken the deadlock in the fifth round of the Candian curling championship. Three of the tied leaders — Manitoba, British Columbia and New Brunswick—met the three winless quartets, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, respectively. Saskatchewan met Alberta, and there was one cut-throat affair, that between Northern Ontario and Ontario, both in the leading class as they started play.

MAYOR HURT IN PEMBROKE RELIEF RIOT

Town Officials Held Prisoners Until Demands Acceded To

PEMBROKE, Ont., March 4.—Mayor A. E. Chisholm was slightly injured Tuesday in a riot by 250 demonstrators who held him prisoner in the town hall until he promised to restore to 25 cents an hour relief wage rates which were cut in February to 20 cents an hour.

The mayor was released after the parish priest intervened and persuaded the crowd to listen to a message from Cockburn promising to accede to the demonstrators' demands.

HOLD PRISONERS

Cockburn said last night he and members of his staff were held prisoners for about seven hours and that he suffered slight injuries to one arm and one leg when he left the building for a moment in an effort to quiet the mob.

"They tried to pull me to pieces," he said, "but I got back in."

MOB ORGANIZED

The mayor declared the mob was organized and that its members shouted: "Kill the mayor. Get Cockburn out of here and we'll finish him. Smash the town hall."

Nervous and somewhat frightened, Cockburn said the crowd "had agitators advising them to storm the town hall and mob officials."

Will Lengthen Breakwater At Lac La Biche

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, March 4.—The breakwater at Lac La Biche, considered highly important because of the part it plays in providing safe landing places along the air route to the far north, is to be lengthened considerably and also increased in height.

Announcement of the proposed work was made from the department of public works after J. A. MacKinnon, member for Edmonton West, had been in conference with the minister of public works regarding the matter and obtained his promise that it would be attended to.

Steamer Sails

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 4.—The Furness-Withy steamship Nova Scotia sailed for New York Tuesday after having replaced a propeller lost during a West Indies cruise last month. She was towed here by the freighter Eastern Prince of the same line after sending out distress calls. Her 101 passengers were landed here Feb. 4.

Members of the legislature, regardless of party, joined whole-heartedly on Tuesday, in paying tribute to Mr. Justice W. R. Howson of the trial division of the Alberta supreme court on the occasion of his elevation to the bench. On motion of Premier William Aberhart the house adjourned early in order that members could pay their tribute.

Judge Howson's resignation as a member of the legislature that Edmonton had been read to the house by Mr. Speaker N. E. Tanner just after the house convened at 3 o'clock. He was not in his seat at the opening, nor through the afternoon sitting.

Just before 5 p.m., Premier Aberhart rose and moved adjournment of the house until 3 p.m. on Wednesday and at the same time requested members to remain seated How. John W. Hugill, K.C., attorney general, left his place and in a moment, through the main door of the assembly, he re-entered with Judge Howson.

HOUSE APPLAUDS

Members and occupants of gallery seats applauded as Judge Howson moved to a seat at the table of the house.

Rising in his place, Premier Aberhart declared that "I do not feel that I can let this occasion pass without expressing the pleasure that we have had in your conferences on one of our members. I refer to the recent appointment of the Liberal leader to a judgeship.

FULLY QUALIFIED

"I would like to congratulate my good friend Mr. Justice Howson on the recognition he has received, and for which I believe he is fully qualified by his long experience in the legal and political field.

"I would like to say, sir, that we are going to miss you in this house.

"You have been a very keen debater and we are certainly going to miss you.

"You have at all times done your level best to help and keep us from treading the by-paths of folly and you have also tried to keep us on the paths of wisdom. These are the qualities of a judge."

The Premier recalled that it was only a short time ago that Judge Howson, in the legislature, had paid a tribute to a predecessor and had dwelt on his good qualities, sportsmanship and the fact that no matter how bitter debate was, there was never any rancor.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

"I just thought how much those same remarks applied to yourself," said the Premier. "In all your vigorous opposition you have always shown good sportsmanship. You can be vigorous in opposition but when it is all over you can take your hat in the hand and realize it was all in the interest of good government.

"We will be missing you, but we are glad you will not be leaving Alberta; that we will be able to see you from the time to time, though not on the floor of this legislature."

John J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary, expressed the disappointment of the Liberal party at losing the leader. But tempering that disappointment was a feeling that he was going to another field of endeavor where he could still render service. Judge Howson had had a notable career, which had been an inspiration to the young people.

LIKED TO BE WITH BOYS

Tracing Judge Howson's career, Mr. Bowlen followed him from days on an Ontario farm through the years as a bank manager and through the war years, in which he had remained a private because he liked to be with the boys.

"We will miss you, but with him have come to love him," said Mr. Bowlen. "He always has been generous and fair. There was never any coercion on his part and he was a most friendly colleague to work with. It will be a long time before we have with us a man with such a broad viewpoint."

Appreciation of the Premier's motion in bringing up the matter, was expressed by Mr. Bowlen.

OLD COLLEGE CHUM

Rev. Roy Taylor, S.C., Pincher Creek, recalled that he was an old college chum of Judge Howson.

"The Dominion government has honored itself in honoring him. You will act wisely and well, and I hope you will always remember that, as Portia said, 'the quality of mercy is not strained.'" he said.

D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader, endorsed everything that had been said. He had been my neighbor for years and when you talk of frankness and honesty, he is the embodiment of both. Mr. Duggan drew attention to the Premier's remark that Judge Howson had been a fine debater.

"But he has not really heard him," said Mr. Duggan. "You should have heard him in some of the debates in past years." Mr. Duggan then recalled an occasion when, good friends as they are, Judge Howson had attacked him in the house.

NOTHING TOO GENEROUS

"As a friend and neighbor there is nothing too generous to be said about Bill Howson. It is a matter of real gratification to me as a fellow-Edmontonian that he has been appointed to the bench and no man will grace the bench of Canada better than Bill Howson."

A. A. Ewing, Social Credit, declared that, notwithstanding the fact that the party was losing its leader, there was rejoicing that his youth and his ideals had been recognized by the Dominion government. It was a fine selection on behalf of the women of the province, both paying grateful compliments to the new justice.

S. A. G. Barnes, S.C., Edmonton, recalled his personal friendship throughout the years with Judge Howson. He had always followed Judge Howson's pronouncements with interest and always had been willing to consider his suggestions.

H. O. Hallam, K.C., Social Credit member for Nanton-Claresholm, tendered his regards as a member of the legal profession.

SPEAKER ADDS TRIBUTE

Mr. Speaker N. E. Tanner declared that the speaker rarely had a chance to speak but when he did, as on this occasion, there seemed to be little left to say.

S. H. Fee, S.C., Sedgewick offered his congratulations.

C. Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, Edmonton, in offering his felicitations said that "If justice ever overtakes me I hope I will be tried by Judge Howson."

Lucien Maynard, S.C., Beaver River; John Irwin, Conservative, Calgary and J. H. Unwin, S.C., Edson also offered their congratulations.

George H. Van Allen, K.C., Liberal, Edmonton, recalled early associations with Judge Howson. "We are proud and pleased our leader has been so recognized by the Dominion." He expressed thanks to Premier Aberhart for the opportunity of congratulating him.

Replying to the addresses, Judge Howson declared that "I appreciate the opportunity that has been afforded us to get together, as this will be the last occasion on which I shall stand on the floor of this house.

TIE OF LIFE BROKEN

"I regret that after such a short association with you all, that that association must be broken. Most people think that when a man is elevated to the bench there is nothing but joy. Yet, no one could sit in the legislature and be associated with the representatives of the people over a period of years and suddenly sever that association, without feeling that a tie of life has been broken.

"I sincerely hope that on the bench I shall bring to bear that humanitarian viewpoint that sometimes lacking in our laws. The human element is all important.

"A marvelous record has been set by judges of the British Empire, a record that is the envy of all countries.

NO LONGER POLITICIAN

"I am no longer a politician. I have a right only to be one of the people doing my duty without fear or favor. I hope I will be able to emulate those who have gone before and those now on the bench.

"I hope that none will have occasion to regret that I have sat among you. I am richer by sitting with you and I hope you will not be the poorer for sitting with me."

ture for ordinary services, and an increase in taxation of $3,268,618.-75, an increase of about 20% over the previous fiscal year;

"And considering that, while this house commends any reasonable effort to balance the budget and to restore Alberta to a sound financial basis, this house nevertheless condemns the method selected by the government of vastly increasing taxes, especially on the food, clothing and shelter of the poor and needy of the province, and also condemns the increase in ordinary expenses;

"And considering that all of these new taxes decrease purchasing power:

"Therefore this assembly has lost confidence in the government and especially in its ability to administer supplies to be granted to His Majesty for the conduct of the affairs of the province."

STRONG CRITICISM

Strong criticism was levelled by Mr. Van Allen at the government, for its actions during the session.

"The extension of the session may be summarized in four sentences," he said.

"These are:

"1—No legislation of any account has been brought down.

"2—Two weeks time has been wasted in the debate on the Speech from the Throne—useless speeches on what Social Credit would do.

"3—The government has arbitrarily refused to make public certain information that cannot properly be concealed.

"4—The whole session is characterized by delay and waste of time."

Turning his attention to the budget, Mr. Van Allen declared that "I am going to be perfectly plain. The people expected a real Social Credit budget from the first Social Credit government in the world.

"In my view this budget is not a Social Credit budget—not a social service budget, but instead, a bondholder's budget, a sound money budget and a rich man's budget.

"I am reminded of those immortal words relating to the first case of impersonation in the Bible. 'The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.' In this case the voice is the provincial treasurer's but the hands that wrote that budget are the hands of Mr. Magor."

THE WHOLE STORY

"The whole story is told in the first page of the estimates. These disclose two outstanding features—

"Firstly—A 20% increase in taxation to raise $3,268,000.00.

"Secondly—An increase in ordinary expenses costing $837,000.00.

"We commend any reasonable effort to balance the budget so that we shall spend less annually than we collect, but our view of balancing the budget is not to increase taxation and expenditure but to decrease expenditure and thereby decrease taxation, the very reverse of what is now proposed.

"The proposed increase in taxation comes mainly from the new sales tax—to produce $2,000,000.00.

"That tax, Mr. Speaker, is a tax on food, clothing and shelter.

"It is a tax that is bad—a wage tax, but in essence it is a wage tax.

"It is a tax that is lain on every man, woman and child in Alberta—the worst kind of a tax, because it bears equally on the poor and on the rich.

"Social Credit promised free dividends to provide food, clothing and shelter to the poor and under privileged.

"Instead, this budget decreases purchasing power by this tax.

"What the government has done is this—instead of increasing the purchasing power of the poor—it has sold the poor people of this province to the Ishmaelites to be carried off in bondage to Egypt to serve the Pharoahs of sound money."

DRAWS REBUKE

Inactivity of the government drew from Mr. Van Allen sharp rebuke.

"This government," he said, "has now been in power nearly six months. Members opposite were elected to overcome poverty in the midst of plenty but the only visible change that I can see is that members of the government benches have achieved plenty in the midst of poverty.

"Why all this dilly-dally? Why that long sham-battle debate? Why all this stalling for time for three weeks? This government has sleeping sickness. It is in the doldrums."

Considerable attention was devoted by Mr. Van Allen to Premier Aberhart and Social Credit. Mr. Van Allen, in his utterances, quoted copious extracts from the premier's own addresses and of those of his followers.

In this connection he said:

"The Premier is very great in the eyes of his supporters. As I have said, this government, since the Premier picked his supporters. Indeed, the Premier's name for Warner went so far as to say that the Premier is the 'greatest leader in all Canada.' If this be so, then I fear the alleged greatness of the Premier is somewhat on the wane, because when I turn to the Social Credit Chronicle of August 9, 1935, the editorial refers to him as 'the greatest leader of all time.'"

SWEEPING STATEMENT

"Now, Mr. Speaker, you must admit that the editor made a very sweeping statement. In the rest of this editorial, I wondered if justice was really being done to some of the great names of the past such as, for example:

"Father Abraham, who founded one of the world's great races.

"Moses and Joshua who, in their day, were said to be great prophets, and who actually led their band of followers into the promised land without any promise of dividends or other attractions.

PREMIER VERY GREAT

"But, as I have said, the premier is very great. He mixes with the great. He has his picture taken with the great as is evidenced by the clipping I have here from the Toronto Globe of September 12, 1935, on which occasion the premier and the Hon. Attorney General were all for a photograph with Sir Joseph Flavelle, the biggest shot of the fifty big shots in the Union Station in Toronto. I think the members will agree with me that having regard for the premier's campaign speeches that he would, if elected to office, take a shot at these fifty big shots as the result of his work in setting up the new economic order, but, so far as I can see all the premier has done up to date is to make friends with some of the fifty big shots and to make a show of protecting the defenceless civil servants of this province. The result of this has been that the civil service is in a state of nervous anxiety—no one knows how soon his head may fall into the gory Social Credit platter, and when an opposition member asked the government to produce the correspondence relating to the enforced retirement of public officials, the government and especially the minister of government sit sullenly still and refuse to table the bare correspondence on the subject."

Mr. Van Allen then dealt briefly with election figures to show that Social Credit members had 68 per cent of the seats in the house while polling only 54 per cent of the popular vote.

"However, when I think of the Social Credit victory last fall, I confess I find much consolation in a statement made to a committee of this house in April, 1934, by Major C. H. Douglas, that the majority, in matters of intelligence, is always wrong and minorities are always right," he said.

THE PREMIER'S PROPHECY

"Throughout the campaign, the premier prophesied that he could and would end poverty in the midst of plenty," he said. "We gladly join in that effort. Members on this side of the house are just as anxious as any Hon. Member on the other side of the house to do the very best possible in the way of equalizing opportunity for the general benefit of all the people."

The premier's remedy was a remedy for the depression. He said over and over again that he could and would end poverty in the midst of plenty. His election slogan was, "It can be done and we will do it." He sought a mandate from the people to put his remedy into effect. He presented one specific remedy as outlined in his Magnet on Social Credit. He sought no other mandate, and he was given no other mandate.

GRAVE CONDITIONS

The situation in Alberta is the gravest in its history. Since the middle of last August, conditions have steadily grown worse. The disastrous frost in August has practically ruined the main industry of the farmers, especially in the northern part of Alberta. This has reacted on the municipalities, the school districts, the teachers, the small town merchants, the insurance companies, banks, the professional classes and all other members of the community. Suffering, distress and want are to be seen on every hand. Relief burdens have become almost unbearable. Taxes have reached the point of diminishing returns. I need not go on. Every member knows these facts.

APPLY REMEDY NOW

Therefore, I say to the government, if you have a remedy for this depression, now is the time to apply it.

The people of this province, having regard to the conditions I have just described and the solemn pledges of the premier and his cabinet, are expecting help now—indeed, they are demanding help now. And under the circumstances, they have a right to demand help now.

Social Credit, as presented by the premier, won the election. The premier has a mandate to carry out the scheme proposed. We say, "he should get on with it at once" for two reasons:

Firstly, it was said to be so easy and so wondrously simple to inaugurate this plan;

Secondly, business and development in this province are at a standstill due to uncertainly in regard to the nature and operation of the Social Credit system.

Business in Alberta today is paralyzed, and the chief reason for this is fear of Social Credit. Therefor, it is important to end this condition of doubt and fear at the earliest possible moment. It is the duty of this government to introduce its system at once and prove its efficacy or failing that, to quit at once.

The Premier of Alberta has promised to abolish poverty in the midst of plenty without increasing taxation and without adding to the debt. Speaking before the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute on Sunday, December 29, 1935, the premier is reported as saying:

"You all know me. Give me a chance. If I find out I can't do it, I'll throw up my hands and quit. In six months you will have recall legislation. You can banish me to the tall timbers."

May I venture to say that there is something "prophetic" in that statement of our premier.

DIVIDENDS AGAIN

If Social Credit dividends must wait for the budget to be balanced, it is as plain as day that the premier is going to need not only 18 months but twice, or three times, or ten times 18 months before he can begin paying Social Credit dividends.

But the government goes further and now says that it is impossible to introduce Social Credit until the province is on a sound basis of financial credit. In other words if the budget cannot be balanced, no dividends will ever be paid. If this be true, then Social Credit is not a remedy for the depression. I am sure that many thousands of voters who supported the government are surprised to make this discovery. Is it any wonder that people are "grumbling."

If Social Credit does depend on a sound state of affairs according to orthodox principles, it is strange that that was not made clear during the campaign. I ask, what Social Credit speaker or writer gave the slightest attention to the matter of a balanced budget and to refunding of the public debt, or economy? I heard none. I do not think there were any.

During the campaign, the premier had much to say against the present economic system. For example: I refer to his original yellow pamphlet, where he promised

Yellow Book p. 1: "The present disordered economic system was designed for an age of scarcity—not the human race has been engulfed in a vicious whirlpool."

May I say frankly that with much of this I agree, to this extent at least, that our present economic system is very far from perfection. Yet, that is the system which is to be made into "a sound basis for Social Credit."

SIMPLICITY OF THE REMEDY

As was pointed out in the speech of the leader of the opposition, the election slogan of the Social Credit Party was "IT CAN BE DONE AND WE WILL DO IT." Those magic words could be seen everywhere. Constitutional lawyers, professors of economics, and men in other walks of life, with wide business experience, who cast doubt on the feasibility of this plan, were hooted at.

The slogan "IT CAN BE DONE AND WE WILL DO IT" overcame every logical argument on the subject. The alleged simplicity of the plan and the ease with which it could be effectuated is shown by a few sentences which I shall quote from the testimony of the premier himself. Giving data and authorities Mr. Van Allen then read the following statements made by Premier Aberhart at various times:

"Social Credit is largely a matter of bookkeeping; a transferring of debits and credits."

"These dividends, to begin with, will be mere book entries on the credit side of the citizen's account in the ledgers of the State Credit House."

"Social Credit will work without money."

"Social Credit is purely a scientific method of distributing goods that does not necessitate the use of money at all. It is simply a matter of bookkeeping."

"We do claim that we can allow credit to all if, by a stroke of the pen, be made out of thin air just by a stroke of the fountain pen."

"There is no need of new machinery."

"There is no need for further authority."

"There is no substantial difficulty in the way of the Province putting it into effect."

"Recovery of dividends presents no difficulty."

"There is no need of taxation to take back the dividends."

"The plan which is simplicity itself. It comprises mere bookkeeping entries, no money is needed, credit can be issued out of thin air, no new machinery is needed, no obstacles stand in the way, and no taxation is necessary," said Mr. Van Allen.

WHAT IT WILL DO

I would like to emphasize some of the things that were promised, or should I say prophecied, for Al-

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4

WHO PAYS

Mayor Davison estimates that Calgary will save $34,500 per year as a result of the province relieving the city of the cost of supporting tubercular patients and of half the cost of mothers' pensions.

Edmonton's civic finances will no doubt be relieved to about the same amount.

But Edmonton property-holders will have to pay a provincial tax of 3 mills on an assessment of $32,000,000, against the former tax of 2 mills—$96,000 per year instead of $64,000, an increase of $32,000 per year.

It is the property-holder of the city who is to put up the money to "relieve" the city of these obligations.

PRODUCE THE FACTS

So Major Douglas has decided he wants no more to do with Alberta's Social Credit Government, announces in London that he is breaking off his contract, stepping out of the picture, and leaving the field to Mr. Magor.

However disappointing, that is hardly surprising. The Major is not a man to play second fiddle to anybody. Moreover, he was hired as "chief" reconstruction advisor to the Government of Alberta, and had never, so far as known, been notified that he was being superseded. In "chucking" the job he does, in almost so many words, he feels that he has not been fairly treated.

As to that, the public will only be able to judge when the Premier brings down the correspondence he refused to produce a week or so ago. This correspondence, it is to be supposed, will now be brought down forthwith. Since the Major has quit, the public ought to know why.

HOW IT WORKS OUT

The Calgary Albertan carries the following table showing how incomes are affected by the new budgetary increases. The tabulation, it is explained, is based on $750 exemption for single persons, $1500 for married couples, and $1900 for a married couple with one child.

Single persons:

Gross Income	1935	1934
$ 750	—	—
1,200	9.00	4.50
1,500	22.50	7.50
2,000	40.00	12.50
5,000	197.50	80.00
10,000	660.00	392.50

Married couples:

Gross Income	1935	1934
$ 750	—	—
1,200	—	—
1,500	—	—
2,000	10.00	5.00
5,000	115.00	55.00
10,000	490.00	330.00

Married couple with one child:

Gross Income	1935	1934
$ 750	—	—
1,200	—	—
1,500	—	—
2,000	2.00	1.00
5,000	95.00	43.00
10,000	450.00	298.00

A "BANKER'S BUDGET"

If the taxpayers of Alberta expected their present Provincial Government would give them the leadership the former Government refused to give them in the fight for financial justice and fair play, they evidently made a mistake.

There is no "fight" in the budget so far as concerns the "sacred" money contracts under which Albertans have for five distressful years been made to pay back dear dollars for the cheap dollars they borrowed, and no recognition of the propriety of staging any fight on that issue.

There is not a word from one end of the budget to the other promising or suggesting a forthright demand for reduced bond-interest rates. Nor a hint that the taxpayers are entitled to compensation for the money that has been wrongfully taken from them because the number of dollars to be paid was the only thing specified in the contracts, with nothing said about the value of the dollars.

As the Calgary Albertan acidly puts it: "The individual taxpayer has been the first and constant thought of Premier and Provincial Treasurer."

He has been, beyond any doubt, to his cost and sorrow. The budget was framed with the single thought of how much money could be taken out of him. The only reason mere is not demanded, the Provincial Treasurer obligingly explains, is because heavier taxation would "probably result in diminished returns." He has been soaked to the limit of calculated productiveness.

As to the bond-holders, well, the Premier is to write them a letter suggesting the appropriateness of making some concession in the matter of interest rates; which will also suggest to them the cooing of a dove.

It is a "banker's budget," first to last.

Poems That Live

TO A SNOWFLAKE

What heart could have thought you?—
Past our denial,
(O filigree petal!)
Fashioned so purely,
Fragilely, surely,
From what Paradisal
Imagineless metal,
Too costly for cost?
Who hammered you, wrought you,
From argentine vapour?—
"God spoke," and gave power,
Passing Surmisal,
He hammed, He wrought me,
From curled silver vapour,
To lust of His mind:—
Thou could'st not have thought me
So purely, so palely,
Tinily, surely,
Mightily, frailly,
Inscalped and embossed,
With His hammer of wind,
And His graver of frost."

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The story told a few days ago in this column about the man who found inner peace and content by adopting a philosophy of how-to-be-happy-on-relief, seems to have aroused a good deal of interest.

Some of the friends wondered if the whole thing wasn't imaginary. One man wrote in protestingly. He seemed to think I was helping to spread a doctrine of a dangerous and retrograde character. Another wrote me an account of how he has suffered indignity in his job for some years, working for a sort of Captain Bligh in the milk business, until at last he was fired—only to find when forced on relief that it is preferable to the abuse he had suffered under.

J. S. Cowper

Then, unexpectedly, came a letter from the subject of the story, who happily was not angered to find I had turned our conversation into print. He writes:

"I was pleasantly surprised to find myself the subject of your column last Wednesday. It gives me satisfaction to know that, if nothing else, my simple philosophy provided a subject for you to perpetuate in your column.

"Since the article appeared, I have listened to much interesting comment on the subject, without disclosing my identity. Should you be questioned on my 'magnificent obsession' here is my explanation of my belief.

"I think that if we can give ourselves a thorough analysis (it must be honestly and fully done) we will find that the cause of most of our troubles lies in the urge of many elusive wants. If we can satisfy our needs and adjust our wants to correspond with them, we have won most of the battle. Assuming our ultimate aim is Happiness—an entirely mental condition, based on Contentment—we can largely achieve this objective within ourselves, without the need of material embellishments."

So there you are, if you want to give it a try.

o o o

Over at the wrestling match on Friday night, a business man crossed the aisle to say, "My wife and I were talking about the chap who had found happiness by going on relief and adjusting himself to it. She says, 'But what would happen if we all went on relief?'"

Aye, there's the rub! And yet it is not so hopeless as it seems. There are fifty-five men and women in the Legislature who have been elected on an economic philosophy that, if it works, will do away with the need for any of us to work. The theory is that if you tax people enough, and then put them back the money you have taxed them (less the cost of overhead) they will then be able to buy more, permitting more taxes to be levied and making more purchases possible. Starting, we will say, with levies aggregating $60 per family, making $50 to be paid back per family in dividends, it will be possible, they say, to so stimulate purchases that ultimately every family may hope to pay levies of $200 per month and receive back dividends aggregating $200 per month. If it works, there will be no limit to the prosperity we can hope to enjoy.

I confess that I can't see how it will work, but that may be the result of a mental defect. In my youth I suffered a head injury that was never attended to. I had met in the boxing ring at Liverpool a chap named Jerry Hill who was leader of a gang of dock rowdies. I won the decision and thought no more about it, until a few evenings later when I was coming home from work and saw Jerry Hill and his gang running across the road as if to intercept me. I didn't think it boded any ill until as Jerry got near me he drew a boiler-maker's hand-hammer from under his coat. As I turned to run he lashed out and hit me over the head with it. It knocked me down but not out. I managed to scramble to my feet and ran. Mercury with his winged feet never made better time.

You know how boys are with their false pride. I didn't like to tell my mother that I had run away from Jerry Hill and the "Ashpool Gang," and soon forgot all about the incident. But when I gaze on these fifty-five honorable ladies and gentlemen in the Legislature, all of them above the average in character and intelligence, and all of whom say it is possible to get rich by taxing yourself, I wonder if a portion of my brain was affected by that blow —or by another I got later on.

It isn't obstinacy on my part. Several persons have written me offensive letters, accusing me of being a poor sport and "yellow," because after the election result last August, I didn't admit error, but still professed inability to see how it could work.

I've even tried to work it out with my pay envelope, imposing a "levy," putting half my wages aside as a Social Credit Dividend Fund and then paying it back to myself (without any deduction for overhead) and still the darn thing won't grow. But though it won't work for me, honesty compels me to say that 55 members out of a Legislature of 62 say it can be done and it will be done. If that's the case —and I devoutly hope it comes true—then we can all look forward to becoming philosophers and living at peace without doing any work other than spending our growing dividends.

Two hundred marriages were illegal in Alberta last year, for lack of medical certificates. The parties and the officiating clergy were unaware of the 1934 amendment requiring the certificates.

The cure for illegality, the Legislature has passed a bill, providing that these marriages shall be held good unless one or both parties apply within a certain time for annulment.

It will be interesting to see how many—if any—apply for annulment.

Female misogynists, like Dorothy Dix in some of her moods, are fond of asserting that if it were not for a binding marriage tie, most men would desert their wives before a year was up.

Now we shall see. Two hundred husbands in Alberta have the chance to back out. My guess is that not half a dozen of them will do so; that if any folk apply for nullity, more wives than husbands will be the applicants. Most men feel a genuine loyalty to their wives. The rare deserter type is neither helped nor hindered by the legal tie.

A Study Of Appetite

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

Many people believe that if they have an appetite or craving for certain foods that the appetite may be relied upon as a guide to what to eat. While it is true that children, when allowed to choose their own foods will instinctively choose those which help them to grow best, nevertheless, the normal grown person can not rely upon appetite if he is to meet his dietetic needs, inasmuch as the average adult has become the victim of a perverted appetite. For example, most children will enjoy raw foods such as raw carrots, while the average grown person is not so likely to choose the raw foods such as salads and is more likely to have modified the appetite for them to such a degree that he prefers something else instead which may be not nearly so wholesome.

Dr. F. McCoy

Also, the appetite is increased by exercise and one securing plenty of outdoor exercise of a vigorous type will tend to rely upon the simple foods to satisfy his hunger; whereas, the one who secures little exercise generally craves complicated or highly seasoned dishes which tempt the appetite. Normal appetite for food will only occur with a person of normal size who does enough physical work to make the tissues of the body call for nourishment.

When the desire for food comes only after one has started to eat, it must be called a "cultivated" appetite, and cannot be called a true hunger. Sometimes this false appetite disappears after taking only a small amount of food and this also can not be called real hunger.

ANOREXIA

The loss of appetite is termed anorexia. Those who complain that the appetite is very poor and that they find most foods distasteful and lacking in flavor, have developed anorexia to some degree. Loss of appetite is very common in many disorders and is usually one of the first signs of disease. It may be a marked symptom in digestive disturbances, liver and gall bladder disorders, anemia, etc. Loss of appetite is also a prominent symptom in many of the acute infectious disorders of children, particularly those which produce fever.

PAROREXIA

Parorexia is the term used to designate a perverted appetite. The symptom may cause the patient to crave unnatural articles of food such as chalk, earth, or pins or may cause him to crave either highly spiced foods or very sour foods. Cravings of this type are most commonly seen during pregnancy and in patients with chlorosis.

BULIMIA

When the appetite is increased to such an extent that the patient becomes hungry soon after eating a meal, the term bulimia is used. The abnormal hunger is not due to a true appetite for food and may be produced as the result of gastritis, or when there is too great a secretion of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. When the stomach is irritated, the patient imagines that he is hungry. Temporary relief from the symptom may be obtained by eating or by drinking liquids which serves the purpose of absorbing the extra acid or of further distending the stomach. A marked increase in appetite is also one of the characteristic symptoms of diabetes, mellitus, and may occur during the presence of intestinal parasites. Occasionally, the nervous patient develops a kind of gnawing hunger which causes him to eat frequently.

When the appetite deviates from the normal in one of the ways I have described, an examination is advisable. The patient should be advised in regard to diet, exercise, and the importance of a satisfactory intestinal elimination. When worry, mental tension or neurasthenia are present, some good suggestions concerning mental hygiene may help to return the appetite closer to normal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: A. W. writes: "What is the Normal Blood Pressure?"

ANSWER: For the adult, the normal blood pressure should be from 120 to 130 systolic. This should not increase much in those of advanced age, and should not go higher than 140.

QUESTION: Mrs. J. B. writes: "Is it ever advisable to use any kind of bread stuff with a meal consisting either potatoes or meat?"

ANSWER: Genuine wholewheat crackers or muffins may be used in a limited quantity with either a meat or starchy food by those in good health. This is an exception to the general rules regulating the use of proteins and starches. If you find that you crave the wholewheat crackers or the muffins occasionally, it is all right for you to use them.

QUESTION: Mrs. S. I. B. writes: "What would cause an excessive dilation of the pupil of the eye?"

ANSWER: The pupil of the eye is capable of great dilation and such dilation is normal. For example the pupil should expand in semi-darkness and contract in brilliant light. When it does not do this, or when one pupil is dilated while the other is contracted, there is some disorder of the brain or nervous system, and a careful examination should be undertaken.

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1621 Great Britain abolished lotteries, which, of course at that time, made lotteries illegal in every British possession. Perhaps the next time someone rises in his place in the House of Commons or a provincial legislature to advocate the establishment of a lottery in Canada, it may be useful for some one else to be able to quote the order of the Privy Council of Britain, given the royal endorsement on March 4, 1621, by King James I:

"Whereas His Majesty was moved at the instance of the Companie for the Plantation of Virginia to give them lycense by Proclamation to sett forth, erect and publish Lotteries within this Kingdome for the raysinge of monie towards the advancement of that Plantation and the reliefe of the Distressed Colonies there. And that Complaint hath ben made to his Majestie by the Commons House of Parliament of the great abuse of the said Lottaries, and the prejudice the Common wealth hath thereby sustayned: His Majestie's pleasure is, and accordingly it is this day ordred, that the further execution of these Lotteries bee suspended. And forasmuch as the same were lycensed by Proclamation, it is thought fitt the Suspension bee likewise by Proclamation, which is to bee prepared and made ready for His Majesties Royal Signature accordingly."

My records do not tell when lotteries were again permitted, but they must have been in existence in the 18th century—possibly to raise war revenues—for in 1802 an act was passed declaring all lotteries save those sanctioned by Parliament, illegal and in 1823 it was made an offence to sell any ticket or chance in an unauthorized lottery, or to publish any scheme for such sales. State lotteries in Britain were abolished in 1825.

The Mail Bag

SEES A CHANCE

Editor Bulletin: Times seem to be basic as you know, for about 98 per cent of the population, but there is no reason why we who are hard up, should all remain so. The easy money is not all gone yet, and I am fully convinced that there is still a chance for you and me to make a haul before the law can stop us.

My plan is simple; this I will run for premier of the province at the first opportunity, and since promises are all that is required to get votes, I will promise anything that the Townsend plan, or Upton Sinclair ever dreamed of, offering, and besides, I could be a real good Christian, bawling my Christian principles, and shouting prophetic passages from the Bible over the air; that would cover the country from Dan to Beersheba. With the assistance of about 60 mouthy individuals that have plenty of gas (brains and experience would not be required), I am sure I can make the grade, especially when they learned the secret.

After the election was over then your part would come in. You have a paper-printing outfit complete, worth about half a million dollars, which the Government of Alberta would replace, although the paper would not be required up till that time. But this is where our profit would come in. I would buy a forty per cent. interest in your paper and pay $700,000 for this minority interest upon condition that you turned back to me and my friends $200,000 on the dollar, of course. Of course I might have to face a referendum or right of recall, but since there is no such law in the province, and a deal of that kind put through under present laws, would undoubtedly stay put.

Then there would certainly arise a tremendous howl later on, possibly within eighteen months from the time I came into power, but who cares. You would have enough money then to compete with the Southam press, and we, green, gassy, inexperienced parliamentarians, with our two years' salary and our share of the swag, would be able to live happy ever after.

The affairs of the province could then be turned over to the Canadian Commonwealth Federation, the only political party in America that has the necessary intestinal investiture to conscript the wealth of the country, and conscripted the blood and bones of our young men during the Great War.

NOT INTERESTED

It is disappointing and extremely unfortunate that there are so many western members now at Ottawa who show no appreciation of the importance of the issue (the reciprocity agreement), and are doing nothing to strengthen the Government's hands. Some have fantastic ideas of restoring prosperity by performing a financial miracle, while others have a vision of a new social order which they know could not be brought about for years to come and which cannot give the relief from the present trouble, for which the people are yearning. These western members and a few others are blind to the practical measures that will bring the greatest and earliest relief from present conditions. They have no sense of the realities of the situation nor of the urgency of using the most effective means for expediting the recovery.

Western members who refuse to see anything in the Social Issue —Mr. Blackmore and his group, and Mr. Woodsworth. Mr. Coldwell and the other Socialists—are turning down an outstanding opportunity to support western interests. They are largely indifferent to a policy which offers western producers the greatest hope at the present time. Westerners who are now suffering from the adverse conditions will not soon forget those representatives who were dreaming dreams when they should have been rendering more practical and more useful service.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Sunshine Shafts

Sergeant: "Did you shave this morning, Jones?"

Recruit: "Yes, sergeant."

Sergeant: "Well, next time stand a bit closer to the razor."

Sweet Young Thing: "Are you in town now for good?"

Traveling Salesman: "Well, I hate to commit myself."

"What is a budget?"

"Well, it's a method of worrying before you spend instead of after."

"Herbie, dear," she murmured, "am I the only girl—?" "Now, look here, clearest," he interrupted, "don't ask me if you are the only girl I ever loved. You know as well as I do that—" "Oh, that wasn't the question at all, Herbie," she answered. "I was just going to ask you if I was the only girl who would have you."

The walking boss called to his assistant and said, "There's a crap game going on behind the bunkhouse—break it up!" The assistant disappeared and was gone for the better part of an hour. Upon his return his boss demanded: "Did you succeed in breaking up the game?"

"Yes, sir," he replied.

"Well, what in thunder took you so long?"

"Well, sir," the assistant replied, "I had only two bits to start with."

berta Social Credit. This great new restorative—to be given away free—is not to turn to the Social Credit literature:

"(1) Social Credit will chase away from our door fear and worry. For centuries back, if not longer, these two strange vultures, fear and worry, have perched at the door of most homes in our land. The present state of unemployment has made these two dread monsters, fear and worry, appear much increased in size and people are crying, What shall we do?

"Social Credit science comes along and offers to remove both of these at one fell stroke, without money or without price, by adopting principles that are well known to modern scientific economists and have been so ably presented by Major C. H. Douglas.

"From the mere fact of association together in an organized state, no one can be granted an undertaking to provide, to every bona fide citizen . . . basic dividends sufficient to secure the bare necessities of food, clothing and shelter."—See White Book p. 7.

"Social Credit almost startles them with its declaration: no more unemployment relief or dole will be necessary."

"You may ask, where will the money come from? This we shall answer in a later pamphlet."

"Every citizen will be able to settle down and dwell in his own home under his own shade tree, no one daring to molest or foreclose. This peace and contentment will settle upon our province."

"Can we abolish poverty in Alberta? There is only one answer and that answer is 'Yes.' How can this be accomplished? By the adoption of Social Credit in this province. We can abolish poverty in Alberta, and we will—by the adoption of Social Credit."

"How will Social Credit do away with this poverty? Very easily. Simply by placing purchasing power in the hands of the consumer, and it places that purchasing power in their hands by furnishing basic dividends."

SOCIAL CREDIT SCIENCE

We draw the attention of the house particularly to the quotation from the study group literature as follows:

"Social Credit science comes along and offers to remove both of these at one fell stroke, without money or without price."

"It does not say that Social Credit will remove fear and worry '18 months from now;' but instead 'at one fell stroke.' Hon. Members will also note that balancing the budget and refunding the debt were not regarded as obstacles, because Social Credit was to accomplish these things "without money" and "without price." Now, Mr. Speaker, if these pre-election statements of the government leader were true then, the government's present talk of the necessity of balancing the budget before introducing Social who asked for a vote of non-confidence in the Legislature yesterday.

Credit is nothing but "humbug." On the other hand if these pre-election statements of the government leader are not true, then it follows that Social Credit itself is a "humbug," and that this government gained the victory by false pretenses.

Again, I say, if Social Credit can be introduced, as promised, "at one fell stroke" and "without money" or "price" why delay 18 months? What is the government planning for? Why is Mr. Magor here? Is he here to be hooked up with the blood stream of the state, or is he here to balance the budget in the interest of the bondholders?

THE ALTERNATIVE

As we have seen, Social Credit was said to be the one and only remedy for the depression. This was repeated over and over again during the campaign. In fact, the Social Credit leader went further and prophetically announced that unless Social Credit were returned victorious at the polls tragedy was certain.

But the day after the election all this was instantaneously changed. It is no longer the depression that is the cause of our suffering and that needs to be remedied. It is something else. Something that all of us overlooked and this is disclosed in the editorial columns of the Chronicle of August 23rd, 1935, where Editor Underwood says:

"What we are suffering from today is—not depression—not poverty—not over-government of the wealthy—but lack of faith and prayer."

BASIC DIVIDENDS

I come now to some reference to the distribution of purchasing power through the agency of what is known as basic dividends. I turn to the blue manual and I find that these basic dividends are to be given away to every bona fide citizen in the form of credit, not money. And then, this statement:

"The dividend will not be paid in money, but there will be credit, in the form of credit, much in the same way that the banks issue many of their loans at the present time."

Now I repeat, that the premier said, as I have stated, that credit could be made out of thin air, just by a stroke of the fountain pen.

I ask the house to carefully keep these two things in mind.

Firstly, that dividends are to be paid in credit, not money, and,

Secondly, that credit can be made out of thin air just by a stroke of the fountain pen.

WHAT ABERHART PROMISED

I have heard it said that the premier never did promise definitely a dividend of $25.00 per month. If it is said by some people that he merely used the term $25.00 as a suggestion or as an illustration. Mr. Speaker, I have to say that the premier did make that definite promise. He did definitely state that Social Credit guaranteed to every adult bona fide citizen a monthly dividend of $25.00. If I am not stating the facts, let him deny it here and now. Quoting from the White book, page 23. Mr. Van Allen read:

"There is only one remedy. (1) Through the agency of basic dividends granted to every bona fide citizen, we shall give purchasing power sufficient to buy the bare necessities of food, clothing and shelter without basing the same on work but the unearned increment of Social Credit. (2) This will be distributed through the credit issues at what we call a credit pass book will be presented by each citizen and an entry of $25.00 will be made. The process will be largely a matter of bookkeeping."

Again in the Social Credit Chronicle of June 21, 1935, we find a signed article by William Aberhart, B.A., saying:

"The Social Credit Solution.

"Two of the three scientific principles of Social Credit are discussed expressly to remove the causes of primary producers' troubles.

"(1) The regular payment of monthly basic dividends. The Social Credit guarantee to pay to every bona fide citizen a monthly dividend of $25.00 will be a particular boom to the farmers . . . What a boon a monthly income of $50.00 for the farmer and wife would be at the present time."

Again the Social Credit Chronicle of Sept. 27, 1935, in an article by Major C. H. Douglas says: "He (Mr. Aberhart) promised during the election to pay every Albertan $25 a month' while the same paper on Oct. 25, 1935, editorially said: 'Premier Aberhart has promised a dividend of $25 a month to every man, woman and child in the Province of Alberta. He can easily do that and much more.'

Not only have we the Premier on record in regard to the Dividend but we also have the Chief Government Whip, the Hon. Members for Edson, who during the Speech of the Leader of the Opposition in the debate on the Address challenged the statement that the Premier had promised $25 per month.

I am producing a lecture on Social Credit delivered by the Government Whip at Westgrove on May 10th, 1935, a copy of which was purchased at Social Credit headquarters during the campaign. He said then:

"Now to give the bare necessities of life we propose to pay everyone $25.00 per month. This is not definitely guaranteed, but it will not be less than $25. The Province is wealthy enough now to give you $100 a month to start with . . . The $25 is not definite but it will not be less . . . It is not money. Money, you see, people, is only a name given to a piece of paper, which is given to a piece of paper controlled by bankers. Let the bankers have their money. We will operate with credit in this Province. You don't have to have money . . ."

There can be no quibbling about what the promise was on the part of the Hon. Premier and the Chief Government Whip who toured this Province as one of the main springs of the Social Credit campaign. The matter how much government members or government supporters may laugh they cannot escape this unconditional promise to pay $25.00 a month. The question is in the position of a man who has signed a promissory note which is now being presented for payment. No excuse or alibi will be expected. The time has come for payment and delivery.

Such language could leave no doubt in the minds of electors as to what was promised. It is clear and unequivocal, so that it was somewhat of a shock to read in our newspapers in December, when the premier was in eastern Canada to attend the Dominion-provincial conference, that he absolutely denied ever making such a promise and explained that "The $25 was a figure of speech."

I wonder how many voters who gave their support, time and energy to the cause of the new economic order, realized that they were only working and voting for a figure of speech. There should be no surprise, then, if people are now wondering if the dividend at any amount was ever anything more than a "figure of speech" and if the just price is just a figure of speech and, finally, if the whole Social Credit fantasy isn't just a "figure of speech."

Mr. Van Allen covered a wide range of subjects. He showed how the Liberals, through the former leader's speech in the debate on the Speech from the Throne, were willing to co-operate. He advanced figures to show that the province had prospered through Liberal administration and in general warmly defended Liberal activities.

Father Divine the Monarch Of Medicine Men

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The bewildered United States has another problem in its hands—a replica in ebony of one of our own political leaders—who proclaims that he has been invested with divine power to bring peace, prosperity, healing and salvation to the whole world.

The problem he is creating has definitely grown out of the joke stage. Thousands follow him from meeting to meeting; shout and howl approval of the strange knots he ties in the English language; and testify to miracles of healing and oodles of repentance.

He has some personal magnetism which enforces responses from his followers both mentally and financially; they obey him as though under a spell. Commencing as a colored movement, it is now somewhat lighter than black and tan. Should the movement keep on extending at its present speed, until it reaches and includes millions of unreasoning adherents, it will take more than a decision of the supreme court to keep a colored monarch out of Washington. A combination between Father Coughlin, Father Divine, and Doctor Townsend could sweep into power in the United States next November.

Father Divine is beginning to feel his oats politically. In a recent speech he said of his men:

"I have enough to patrol the City Myself. It is indeed wonderful! I could call out Ten Thousand patrolmen—volunteer ones and send them around to all of the places wherever MY Followers are and have been, to patrol the City, and put everyone under "The Mug," if they rebelled against the least one. I do from time to time refrain from speaking, and I also refrain from announcing any meeting that I AM anticipating particularly in, for if I would announce it, just a few days ahead, there would not be an auditorium in the City that would be able to accommodate MY Immediate Followers."

All the attributes of royalty travel with Father Divine and his family. Here is the official account of a visit to New Rochelle, N.Y.

"About three-thirty, the blue Rolls-Royce drove up with FATHER, Mother, and part of the Staff, followed by other Personal cars, and crowds of the curious who had been waiting, ran together to look on the Personal Body of GOD. As FATHER entered the Building and went to the suite always reserved for Him, a great Demonstration took place, followed by a still greater one, as He made His way through the Throngs to the Banquet Table."

Then Father Divine expounded his doctrine as follows—(being strong on banquets and good eats.):

"My very Words that I have Spoken to you, they are Spirit and they are Life. They take form! They materialize! They become to be an outward expression visibly manifested, —the materialization of the Words that I have Spoken,—those of My Believers, those of My Hearers do. Therefore I Say to you, PEACE, GOOD HEALTH, GOOD WILL and GOOD APPETITE, with GOOD MANNERS and GOOD BEHAVIOUR; not only so, but with all Success and Prosperity, all Wisdom, all Knowledge and all Understanding. Of course it does include a real good EDUCATION! All of these Qualities are at your disposal when you recognize the Ever-presence of GOD.

"As I told you, the ACTUAL Presence of GOD will be observed as you accept of My Word and conceive the idea concerning what I am Speaking."

As FATHER concluded temporarily, Mother arose singing by Inspiration as follows: —

"I heard a Voice Saying, "Come up higher,"
"I'll show you the things that will surely come to pass."
I heard a Voice Saying, "Come up higher,"
The mystery of the Seven Seals."

Father Divine then announced his broadcasting dates, as he buys radio time by the hour, and then gave the assembly his blessing and dismissal. Then it is recorded:

"As the diners left the Table following these words, FATHER Sang Personally, as follows:—

"I'll go with you, I'll go with you,
I'll go with you all the way,
I'll go with you, I'll go with you,
I'll go with you all the way.'"

Just why this goes over to hundreds of thousands of people nobody knows; and even should they know, there would be no way of telling what to do about it.

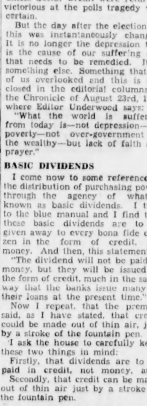

Politicians with a glance at Hitler and Mussolini, are beginning to consider that an army and navy personally conducted tour back to Africa may soon be necessary.

Contract Bridge

By E. V. Shepard

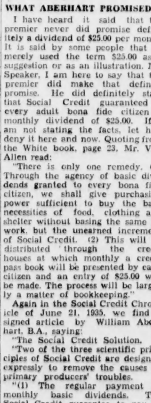

GOOD AND BAD SLAM BIDS

A good slam bid is one made on conviction that the contract cannot be defeated more than a trick, and the expectation that the contract can be fulfilled. Knowingly entering greater risks would be bad slam bidding. The Average game bid is 300 points, just the value of a small slam bid and made when not vulnerable. Bidding a small slam rendering taking a finesse with even chances to win or lose merely is a "double or quit" proposition, appealing only to the gambler, and neither winning nor losing much or anything in the long run. The two hands given were dealt in a recent two-section duplicate game, one hand appearing in each section.

My partner and I sat North and South in the section in which the above hand appeared. Quite one pair bid the small slam, as follows: West, 1-Spade; East, 3-Diamonds; West, 3-Spades; East, 4-Clubs; West, 4-Diamonds; East, 4-Diamonds.

The above hand affords an example of a good slam bid. West opened the bidding, and figuring him for the usual two and one-half quick tricks as opener, East is convinced that 3 odd are certain and that the small slam is probable. All East and West pairs made the small slam, even if they did not go beyond game. A single club trick need be lost. The 6 of hearts may be discarded on dummy's spades, so that even the risk of a finesse need not be taken.

The above hand may be played for a small slam, either in hearts or no trumps. It speaks well for the intelligence of the East and West players that no pair bid a small slam. Making the small slam involves successful finesses in both major suits when it is bad enough to have to risk a finesse in a single suit. In addition to requiring two major suit finesses, diamonds obligate perfect play to fulfill a small slam contract. It would be classed as very bad bidding to go 6 odd on such hands as East and West held. To lose only one diamond trick the 4 must be led. Unless South plays the ♦K, the 10 must be finessed and lost to the Q. The Ace then will pick up the K, and a finesse will pick North up.

COST OF U. S. DOLE HEAVY

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A preliminary report on the cost of direct relief in 1935, indicating the United States government's share of the bill varied from 99.7 per cent in North Carolina to 35 per cent in Rhode Island, was made public Tuesday.

Officials explained reports for the last quarter of the year were not complete, but estimated cost of the 1935 dole at $1,820,806,003, of which the federal government contributed $1,309,330,185, or 74.5 per cent.

Badly-Burned Body Of Fisherman Found

VICTORIA, March 4.—The badly-burned body of Joseph Claremont, 33-year-old fisherman, was found Monday in his gas-boat "Sanat" drifting at Tahsis Saltery, on the west coast of Vancouver Island. British Columbia police headquarters were advised Tuesday.

Constable T. Jones reported the fisherman apparently died in an explosion resulting from a leaking gas tank aboard the craft. It was believed he was alone at the time.

United Church W.M.S. Raises About $26,000

Delegates from throughout the province representative of the 5,000 women affiliated with the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada in Alberta, registered at McDougall church on Wednesday morning for the eleventh annual conference of the W. M. S. being held until Friday of this week. Devotional service was conducted by Rev. A. K. McMillan, and following the opening formalities of roll call, and appointment of committees, reports were presented.

Mrs. T. Powell of Calgary, provincial president, occupied the chair, and it was learned from the treasurer, Mrs. J. E. White of Calgary, that of the total missionary receipts, $25,944.93, the sum of $21,800 was remitted to the national treasurer of the board in Toronto. Sources of income include annual membership fees of $954.65; new life membership, $920; Easter and Autumn thankoffering, $4,181.02; envelopes, $3,491.63; mite boxes, $703.55; associate helpers, $787.46; other sources, $9,583.43; supplies, $469.69; Presbyterial balance and other sources, $352.91, making a total of $26,384.

Calgary and Edmonton shared honors in raising the largest sums of money, Calgary having led by a slight margin with $7,923, and the Edmonton Presbyterial raised the amount of $7,250. High River and Lethbridge raised the amounts of $2,061.89 and $2,100 respectively. Medicine Hat and Camrose Presbyterials each raised over $900.

In presenting her report, Mrs. F. E. Graham of Calgary, announced that the total membership of the Women's Missionary Society in Alberta is approximately 5000. This number includes also the affiliated C.G.I.T. groups, auxiliaries, with a membership of 2805, and evening auxiliaries with 24 members. There has been a marked increase in systematic giving.

Mrs. R. B. Layton of Lacombe, who represented the W.M.S. at the national conference held in Toronto last summer, reported that there are ten mission centres in Alberta. Foreign stations number 30 with 182 missionaries in service abroad, and in the 80 home mission stations there are 64 associates. All told there are 283 missionaries of the United church, at home and in foreign service. Mrs. Layton also mentioned the evangelical, medical and educational program carried on in mission fields.

Following the report of mission work, the address of Miss Constance Ward recently returned from West China was heard with intent interest on Wednesday afternoon.

- JASPER - JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

Sunless caves of Jasper's canyons are visited by hikers, for spring offers one opportunity a year to enter the silent caverns rimmed with the ice of remains. Silent water falls, crystalled with frozen foam is beauty, ideelf, rarely seen.

JASPER PARK, March 4—The milder weather of last week-end brought nearly everyone out hiking with Old Fort Point and the Lodge road popular rendezvous. Some of the more venturesome took a look at the Maligne Canyon from the river bottom, looking up at the ice and snow banked walls instead of down into them. This is one of the most interesting spots in Jasper Park in the early spring before the flood of water fills the ice caves and tears away the frozen, fantastic mantels from the rocks. Entering below the lower bridges, parties make their way over great boulders and peer into caves where the light never reaches and which are rimmed with ice dating back thousands of years. The several falls are silent and the foam, frozen into the semblance of fairy lace, hangs from walls of the canyon trip on Sunday. H. J. Perrier, Jasper photographer, with Carl Knudson, made up one party, and Pete Withers with a group of six Scouts, the other.

PLANES MAKE CALLS

During the past week several planes have called at Jasper. On Wednesday, Ted Field arrived with C. Rose, mechanic, Radio Operator Cooper and Assistant Mechanic Green, and remained in Jasper until Sunday, when they took off for Banff. On Saturday Carl McConachie dropped in with the Eskimo goalie, "Red" McCusker as passenger. The Edmonton goalie lost the train and took this way of joining his team mates on their way to the Coast. According to McConachie, this was one of the roughest mountain trips he has ever made in his career as a mountain flyer. A strong head wind was fought all the way westward from Edmonton. As the next few weeks planes will be using Jasper as a refuelling point, as Pyramid Lake is a much better landing spot for ski equipped planes, than Rainbow, further west in B.C. and the usual refuelling point during the months of summer flying. The road to Pyramid Lake will be kept open for the servicing of the planes.

OTTAWA, March 4—A zealous but misinformed patriot has found a blond woman "spy" in the press gallery of the House of Commons, it was disclosed today. The patriot, whose name he had observed from the public gallery behind the press accommodation a woman writing notations in a parliamentary guide and looking across the floor of the house. He made his observations during debate on the Canada-United States trade agreement.

He asked, confusing the name of Mrs. Evelyn Tufts, correspondent for a Nova Scotia paper, with that of the late President Taft of the United States: "Why is a prominent family in the United States so interested in our affairs that they send one of the best brains in their country to our press gallery?"

He added: "Please note this certain lady (whom he called Taft) has taken a parliamentary guide and was making notations opposite the name of nearly every member."

The man was believed to fear an annexation move on the part of the United States.

Mrs. Tufts said she was not a spy. She is a blond.

Franchise For Quebec Women Again Debated

Madame Pierre Casgrain, president of the Quebec League for Women's Rights, today expressed pleasure at the fact that the House of Commons had again been made aware the provincial franchise had not been granted to Quebec women.

Madame Casgrain said, "Logically speaking it is almost ridiculous that women should vote in federal elections and not be denied that privilege in provincial campaigns. We are sure trouble will arise well follow the other provinces and give the franchise to a most important group of her sex. We believe this.

Women's franchise was mentioned in the House of Commons during a discussion of extending voting privileges to several excluded groups when Premier Mackenzie King said that, with respect to franchise, we in the federal parliament have felt it our duty to respect the wishes of each of the provinces in matter of this kind." Angus MacInnis immediately asked "Is that being in regard to votes for women in the provinces of Quebec?"

FEDERAL HOUSE AGREED

Later in the discussion Minister of Justice Lapointe flatly contradicted the contention of the Conservative leader, that "the people of Quebec do not want their women to have the franchise." When the sodomy motion was amended: "Well, the present government does not want them to have it." Mr. Lapointe replied: "I think the members of this house from the province of Quebec are all in favor of it."

Mr. Woodsworth continued his argument with "Again a group of deputations have gone to Quebec asking for the franchise for women, but they have been turned down by people who are supposed to represent that province."

In an interview today, Mr. Lapointe enlarged on his interest in the cause of women's rights in Quebec said the majority of the Quebec federal members felt strongly on the matter.

Mr. Machtie also spoke of the interest in politics of women in his constituency and the active part they took in his campaign. It seems strange to me that the federal government should assume a higher value on the intelligence of the women of Quebec than does that province itself," he said, adding: "If women are capable of voting in federal elections they should certainly be capable of voting on provincial matters."

Oil Paintings From Academy Are On View

"Promise of Spring" might also have been a fitting title for Berthe des Clayes' "A March Morning," one of the most vital of a beautiful collection of water colors and oil paintings from the Canadian Royal Academy now hanging in the Edmonton Museum of Arts Gallery at the Civic block. With the first rays of sunshine that seem wont to burst through powdery clouds, the last vestige of soft snow at the feet of the great bare trees will melt, buds will unfold.

Forceful effect is achieved by Arthur Heming's picture, "On the Alaskan Border," in which a bear stands motionless amid great green sheened stalactites of ice, the sole awed witness of the grandeur about him. Yet another lady of winter beauty is "Evergreens," by Henriette Briton, R. C. A.

"Horses," by Frederick G. Cross, depicts them standing proudly, manes wind-tossed, atop a slope near Cochrane, Alberta. The picture is suggestive of freedom, characteristic of the pioneer province.

STUDY OF THE SEASONS

Clever arrangements of light and shadow enhances the colorful "Autumn Landscape" of Fred H Brigden, A.R.C.A. From the distant pale blue hills, behind which a slim finger of rainbow is glimpsed, a wide belt of sunshine sweeps forward, illuminating the buildings in the foreground against their russet-tinted setting.

"An October Breeze," whimsically flirting up and down a brief curve of lake shore, flecking the water with little white created ripples, and bending the foliage of fringing trees, has been charmingly interpreted by George Thompson.

With subtlety has Paul B. Earle, A.R.C.A. portrayed the impression of "Clearing Weather." Gloomy clouds hang in shrouds about the top of a mountain and at its feet the roof tops of a tiny village are shown glinting in the fitful sunshine that filters through the leaden sky.

Rich expression of a strong character is Kathleen Daly's "Alphonse L'Abbe," enigmatic portrait of a man.

Excited jargon of the marketing peasants in "La Place Jacques Cartier" can almost be heard as they stand in careless groups in the crowded street or shout their wares from quaint little stalls and carts.

The age-old fascination of the sea has inspired Alice Des Clayes' lovely picture of "Cattle Washed at Exmouth, Devon." His weather-beaten face happy as he performs what he loves a man leads two horses drawing a cart of seaweed. Beyond the expanse of white sand at his back a herd, cow-eyed in the sun, socks on the lapping waves close to the shore. Farther off still the faint outline of buildings, and lacing their way among the wisps of clouds overhead are gulls.

Household Problems Prove Exasperating

Our paternal government, which is rather more maternal than paternal in its curious prying into our innermost lives and its efforts to find out what we do and why we do it, has sent out a questionnaire to farm women asking them how many hours a day they work; how much butter, milk and eggs, chickens, turkeys and ducks they produce; how much fruit and vegetables they can; how much clothing they make for their families, and so forth and so on.

Dorothy Dix

This information thus obtained, it is stated, is not only of financial but also psychological importance, for it is intended to show that the money worth of crops raised by women is often as great or even greater than that of their husbands' wheat or cotton or corn. It will give wives a realising sense of their importance in the domestic partnership and, above all, teach husbands to appreciate their wives' value as helpmeets.

It is a great idea that should not be confined to the rural districts, but that should come to town. For to millions upon millions of overworked household drudges the millennium will have arrived when they can draw out their little budgets on their husbands, when they demand to know how they have idled away the day, and prove that they have not only worked longer hours but also have actually earned more money than their lords and masters have.

There are two things that rile the average woman more than anything else and that are always the fighting word when stirred in any domestic circle. One is for a husband to assume that he is a poor hard-driven slave who works his fingers to the bone to keep his wife soft and comfortable while she lives a life of ingterious ease, lolling about on satin cushions reading novels, going to the movies, or going on shopping debauches.

It simply makes a woman see red to have her husband say to her that he doesn't see what on earth she does with her time, and he wishes he could take it easy like she does, with nothing to do but to keep house and look after the children, when she has got up an hour before he did to get his breakfast and still be paid at the grind patching little Johnny's pants and darning his socks an hour after he had undressed in bed at night.

About the only man who ever appreciates the value of a wife's work is a widower. It is when wife dies and he has to hire half-a-dozen high-priced women to do the work she did, to cook and clean and sew and mend and baby-tend and be a professional shopper and social secretary and God knows what else, that he marries in self-defense. Because wife labor is scab labor and the cheapest on the market.

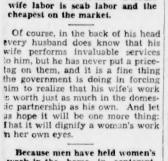

Of course, in the back of his head every husband does know that his wife performs invaluable services to him, but he has never put a price-tag on them, and it is a fine thing the government is doing in forcing him to realize that his wife's work is worth just as much in the domestic partnership as his own. And let us hope it will be one more thing: That it will dignify a woman's work in her own eyes.

Because men have held women's work in the home in contempt, women also have despised it, and, if they can be made to see that making a comfortable home and rearing a fine family is a greater career than being ever the radio and getting into the movies, a great good will have been achieved.

DOROTHY DIX.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The Tinies watched the mechanical lamp, and Coppy said, "Right here we'll camp until we see what happens. I'm as thrilled as I can be.

"I feel that Miss Chrysanthemum knows that we Tinies are not dumb. She wouldn't play a trick on us, as far as I can see."

"Of course she wouldn't," Dotty said. "She'll entertain us all in-stead. Perhaps that lamp's for tanning, and we'll get a nice sunburn."

"Right now it's focused on the ground. Beneath it we might run around." Their friend then said, "That's not my plan, as you will shortly learn.

"The rays are ultra-violet from this big lamp, and now I'm set to bring forth Little flowers. They'll come popping from the ground.

"Can you guess just what kind they'll be? Now, who's the smartest tot, we'll see." For many moments not a single Tiny made a sound.

Then Goldy jumped and shouted, "Oh, I'll bet you anything I know. The flowers will be violets. Now, tell me, am I right?"

Fair Miss Chrysanthemum just smiled and then said, "Absolutely, child! Just watch the ground and you'll soon see a very pretty sight."

"Hurray! I see one coming through. Yes, sir, and now I can see two," cried Windy. "There's another. Gee, but they are growing fast.

"The ultra-violet rays have done their work, and now we'll see some fun. I hope the blooms are strong and for a long long time will last." The Tinies watched them grow and grow. "Now, I'll have them put on a show," said Miss Chrysanthemum. "I'll make them dance around and 'round."

The flowers did, and all kept step. They certainly were full of pep. Said Dotty, "I'd think they'd get tired and flop down to the ground."

Powdered Milk Mask Aids The Complexion

By GLADYS GLAD

According to historians, that famous beauty, Mary, Queen of Scots, who lost her pretty head during Queen Elizabeth's rule in England, had an exquisite complexion. Queen Mary, it seems, had her own ideas of complexion care. She generally used special oils to cleanse her skin. And after removing the oils, she always bathed her skin with perfumed milk. For she considered milk one of the most effective preparations for preserving the youthful beauty of the skin.

As I've told you before, milk really is an excellent complexion beautifier. When taken internally, it helps to clear the skin and to eradicate blotchiness and sallowness. But milk can also be used externally as a skin beautifier, and the best way to make use externally is to use powdered milk, and to incorporate it into a face mask.

The powdered milk is really very simple to prepare and to administer. The powdered milk used is the regular powdered milk that most well-stocked drug stores carry. The skin should first be cleansed with a pure, bland soap and tepid water before the mask is applied, and then with a liquefying cleansing cleam. Remove the cleansing cream next, and apply a rich nourishing cream to your skin. Use this cream to remain on your skin for a few minutes, and then remove it with tepid water and a soft cloth.

To prepare the mask itself, mix enough—usually a heaping tablespoonful—of powdered milk with sufficient cold water to form a smooth, creamy paste. If your skin is excessively oily, you may substitute a good skin tonic or witch hazel for the water. Apply the paste generously over your face and permit it to dry. Lie down and relax during this period of rest, if you possibly can, because it will do you a great deal of good.

To remove this facial, when the mask is thoroughly dry, remove it with tepid water and a soft cloth. And as the finish, apply a milk skin tonic or astringent, in order to leave your skin soft—not oily—skin. This mask has a bleaching effect on the skin, helps to refine its texture, leaving it feeling soft, smooth and velvety.

Care Must Be Taken In Making Meringue

By MARY E. DAGUE

You can't make a meringue with incantations, even though the perfect result does seem sheer magic. You may want to use the electric mixer but elbow grease is better.

In order that the action of air may be complete, the egg whites should be beaten with a whisk, a dover beater or a churn beater cannot whip the air necessary to make a perfect meringue from the egg whites.

Sister Mary

Eggs from three to five days old are most satisfactory. They increase in volume more at this stage of freshness than at any other time. Also note that when you make an angel food cake, too. Some cooks, in their haste to separate eggs, defeat their own ends because a day-old egg does not beat up as stiff as a three-day egg.

TWO KINDS OF MERINGUE

Great care must be taken to separate the white from the yolk. Even a tiny bit of the yolk prevents the white from beating well. If much of the yolk is broken through the white the egg must be used for some other baking, but not for meringue. However, a small amount of yolk can be removed by dampening a soft clean cloth and dipping it into the break of yolk until every trace is removed.

I have had so many requests lately for recipes for meringues that I'm going to give you two, one for the kind you put on pies and puddings and the other for meringue shells.

A simple meringue is used for pie and pudding frostings. For meringue shells you use the same ingredients in different proportions.

If you store the shells in an air-tight container they will keep a week or more and they certainly make a festive dessert filled with fruit and whipped cream, or with ice cream mixture.

PLAIN MERINGUE

Whites 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 6 tablespoons powered sugar, few grains salt.

Beat whites of eggs with lemon juice until stiff. Fold in sugar and salt, adding about 1 tablespoonful of sugar at a time. Pile on pie or pudding and bake fifteen minutes in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). The lemon juice flavors the meringue and also helps to harden the albumen, making a fine meringue.

MERINGUE SHELLS

One-half cup egg whites, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg whites on a large platter until stiff, sprinkling salt over when beginning to beat. Beat in two tablespoons sugar. Add sugar gradually, a little constantly until a silver knife comes out clean when it is plunged into the mixture. Cover a board that is at least an inch thick with heavy foolscap paper. Drop mixture from tip of spoon or force through pastry tube. Bake fifty minutes in a very slow oven (275 to 300 degrees F.) The shells really dry more than they bake. They should be slightly colored when done and firm to the touch. Remove from oven and slide from paper. Scoop out the soft inside and return to oven for a few more minutes to dry the inside of the shells. Fill with ice cream or a fruit whip and whipped cream when ready to serve. Strawberries in the shells with heavy cream dipped over them is a dessert your guests will long remember. The cream should be heavy whipping cream or the thick, clotted kind you skim from the milk if you live in the country and keep a cow.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Halves of grape fruit, broiled Canadian bacon, potatoes hashed in milk, whole wheat muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Old-fashioned vegetable soup, tea biscuits, hearts of lettuce, skinned grapes and bananas in cheesy jelly with whipped cream, cup cakes, milk, tea.

DINNER: Roast leg of lamb, potatoes browned with meat, brown gravy, buttered peas in turnip cups, mixed vegetable salad, pineapple sherbet in meringue shells, milk, coffee.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The old saying, "Faint heart never won fair lady," is so threadworn don't let us quote it. Or "Nothing rinked nothing won." That is too sore a point with about twenty million people today.

So I have coined my own, "Fat heart never got up a hill." And it is about these morally "fat" hearts, but that our children may have them, Let's call them cocoons, just to be different again. Don't all of us "wrap our children 'round with a string," and then in later years expect them to emerge, not butterflies, but armored beetles ready to fight their way in this everlasting tough world? Sure, we all do.

O. R. Barton

When Billy is little we cherish him. When he is growing we guide and protect him. As he approaches manhood we admonish him. But all through the watchword is "Be careful." Never take a risk. Always be on the safe side. Mamma doesn't like you to fight. Mamma doesn't want you ever to go around the corner."

NEED COURAGE TO CARRY ON

And all this is right and proper; what else have I been writing all these years? But if you can forget it for a moment and not hold all my cautions against me, there is this thought I think we should look into today. As time goes on, are we instilling the moral courage (or the physical, either, for that matter) in them that they will need?

Now we don't want our children doing solos over the ocean precisely, or walking on thin ice just to show the fellows; we can't hope they will be broncho-busters or do three-hundred miles an hour on the sands of Daytona; but is it too much to bear when Butch calls our nice Billy a wie name, if said Billy will neatly and promptly punch Butch's nose?

I think at the moment I must just that, without apology. I am getting a bit fed up with the glorifying process of turning the cheek. So many children and young people lack sufficient courage to stand on their own feet. The ones who should are usually those who don't.

LET THEM TEND FOR SELVES

Fat hearts, or cocoons, as you like. This is the very thing that is filling our young people today with conflicts and unhappiness. They have lost the power largely to fend for themselves. Unable to step into a place ready-made for them, they give up. I speak generally, of course, because there are always the exceptions to prove the rule. But the too-sheltered life for too long a time never taught happiness yet, because it tends to self-pity and shrivels spunk.

I don't believe we begin early enough in life to teach children something about feeding for self, either mentally, morally or physically. We are too prone to hand them pre-digested food and expect them to cut molars on it.

One small episode to stop with. A mother recently had to be away for lunch. Jimmy had to get his own. A lady remarked that never had her children once missed her good lunch, and she had always been at home after school, too. Which is all according to Hoyle and Einstein. But what do you think the mother of William said? She said, "Why don't you try it sometime?" And I can't help thinking she scored one there.

The bolder colors, bright pink, Nile green, navy and white and navy are much liked. There are one-colored gloves and two-color dittos. The mother of William said? She said with nigger brown are favorite combinations. Pastel shades are not so popular.

CUTTY SARK CLUB HOSTS TO 50 BOYS

Lads Hear Sea Yarns, Sing Chanties and Learn About Sailing

Fifty boys and youths, members of the Sea Scouts and competitors in the recent contest for the best model of H.M.S. Bounty, were guests of the Cutty Sark Club on Tuesday night. They sat in at a "dog watch" to hear sea yarns, sing chanties and learn about the art of the sailing ship. Many of them are to compete in a new contest for the best model of the famous Dumbarton clipper ship, after which the Club is named.

Skipper "Jimmy" Walker who sailed in the old Australian wool clippers acted as presiding officer and made the boys roar with his story of his experience as ship's doctor, and the man whose life he nearly ended with an overdose of Perry's Pain Killer.

LET HIM DIE

"After he got better, he wanted to see me," said the skipper, "I thought he wanted to murder me for nearly murdering him, but all he wanted was to ask me if he took yellow fever, to let him die and not try to save his life any more."

Capt. William Ward, who first shipped in 1884, and whose experiences in the South Seas as schooner skipper and trader have formed many an entertainment at the club, with the assistance of a rigged model, explained the principal parts of a ship and the various spars, sails, standing rigging and running gear, with their uses.

Capt. Arthur Perry, who has built schooners as well as sailed them, and Shipmate J. S. Cowper, who has had some experience in building and sailing small craft, both told some stories of the sea and offered to put the competitors some preliminary instruction on the making and rigging of models.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Others who took part in the speech-making and entertaining were ex-Skipper Alan Young, who led the chanties and told of his training on H. M. S. Conway, and of his apprentice days at sea; Shipmate Bob Ratcliff, Walter Wilson, manager of the Capitol theatre, who promised to find a suitable theatre for the competition; some preliminary instruction on the making and rigging of models.

CORPORATE TAX PLAN STARTLES U. S. CONGRESS

Industry Will Be Handed Annual Bill of $620,000,000

By RICHARD L. TURNER

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 4—An unparalleled revision of corporate taxation—handing industry an annual bill of $620,000,000 for farm relief and the soldiers' bonus—was suggested to a startled and obviously unprepared Congress Tuesday by President Roosevelt.

Republican criticism, in which some Democrats joined, gave prospect of a major battle. Machinery to get the proposal started, however, to press the plan forward.

PORTION OF PROFITS

In his special message the President proposed that the federal tax collector reach into corporation treasuries for a portion of the profits not distributed as dividends. The extra revenue would provide the treasury with funds needed for farmers and war veterans.

To accomplish this, he asked that present corporation income and other levies be repealed, at an annual loss to the government of $1,620,000,000, and replaced with levy to undistributed profits, which, with a resulting gain in individual income taxes, is estimated would produce $1,620,000,000 annually.

TAX DIVIDENDS

His point was that under the present law corporations receiving dividends pay only a surtax upon them, while his proposal would make dividends subject to both the normal tax and surtax—with this supplemented by a stiff tax on undistributed profits not turned into dividends.

In addition, the president proposed that a sizeable portion of processing taxes refunded as a result of the Supreme court's AAA and rice millers' decisions, be scooped up by a special tax and that temporary excises be levied upon the processing of farm commodities to reimburse the treasury for losses attributed to the court's decision.

SPREAD OVER PERIOD

These levies would be limited to the collection of some $200,000,000 spread over a period of two or three years. The number of commodities to be taxed would be increased with the result, he said, that a "relatively light burden would be imposed on large producers, consumers, or processors."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the factor of large corporations and idle millers' decisions, he scooped up by a special tax and that temporary excises be levied upon the processing of farm commodities to reimburse the treasury for losses attributed to the court's decision.

GENERAL N.Y. STRIKE ASKED

NEW YORK, March 4.—An unprecedented meeting of building service strikers late last night called for a general strike today to tie up New York City as Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, arrived to "settle" the strike which has crippled elevator and heating service in hundreds of apartment and office buildings.

At the end of the third day of a strike marked by violence and disorder, more than 100,000 workers, dismembered by the Socialist Berger revolt, announced 78,000 building service workers were out, and compared with 11,000 on the 5,849 buildings today.

Police headquarters said their count showed only 1,303 buildings affected, and employers' spokesmen placed the figure at 3,500.

For the first time since it began Sunday, the strike spread to hotel and club.

working capital and cover depreciation and equipment and surplus which he said represented earnings, needed by the smaller stockholders which should be taxed or distributed.

Second reading will be given today.

LETTERS ARE INTRODUCED INTO TRIAL

Doctor is Accused in "Devil's Beef-Tub" Murder Case

MANCHESTER, Eng., March 4.—Letters written by Dr. Buck Ruxton after the date upon which the prosecution claims he murdered his wife and a nursemaid were introduced into the "devil's beef-tub" case Tuesday.

The crowded assize court which had heard the crown charge that the East Indian-blooded doctor committed the murders about September 15, 1935, heard excerpts from letters Dr. Ruxton wrote to Mrs. Ruxton's sister, October 6 and 8.

SIGNED "BOMMIE"

The letters, signed "Bommie," were addressed to Mrs. Jean Nelson of Edinburgh.

"Dear sister," said the first, "I am heartbroken and half my Isabella has left me. I am afraid I cannot knock sense into her.

"I do admit that I have a temper but in spite of that, I am terribly fond of my Belle."

The next letter, two days later, begged Mrs. Nelson: "Help me keep my home together. Surely to goodness I can not such a terrible person that she cannot live with me."

CUNNING ATTEMPT

In presenting the letters, the Crown contended that they were written as a cunning attempt to throw off suspicion.

The prosecution revealed that three weeks earlier Dr. Ruxton had killed his wife and a nursemaid, Isabella Rae Ferguson, dismembered their bodies and thrown them into the Scottish border ravine known as the Devil's Beef-Tub.

HOUSE SEEKS BANNED BOOK

OTTAWA, March 4.—A "banned" book was found last night in the Commercial Library and produced in the House of Commons by A. A. Heaps (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North) as he questioned Hon. Dr. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national revenue on methods used in censoring imported literature.

Mr. Heaps complained of books being barred from Canada by customs officials which were to be found in most libraries and volunteered to produce one from the parliamentary library. He sent a messenger and soon had the book volume entitled "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific," first published in 1892. He claimed it had circulated in Canada for years and was something of a classic.

The minister doubted if the book was really banned and suggested a mistake must have been made somewhere.

Bill To Change Franchise Act Given Reading

OTTAWA, March 4.—The Senate last night gave first reading to the bill amending the Dominion Franchise Act. This obviates the necessity for conducting a revision of the electoral lists this year.

The bill was passed by the House of Commons, where, later in the session, the whole election machinery is slated to be overhauled by a special committee.

Second reading will be given today.

SENTENCES ARE INCREASED BY SUPREME COURT

VANCOUVER, March 4 — The British Columbia court of appeal Tuesday increased sentences meted out to three men convicted of manslaughter at the last fall assizes from a total of five years to a total of 26 years.

The 21's year sentence given John Pincus of Victoria in connection with the death of Clarence N. Pappas was increased to eight years as was the 18 months' sentence handed down in the case of Ernest Banks, negro, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Armando Mori.

James Bova, who shot to death his 22-year-old wife Rose, had his seven year sentence increased to 12 years.

The original sentences had been appealed by the British Columbia attorney general's department on the grounds they were inadequate.

Farm Industrial Council May Be Formed In B. C.

VICTORIA, March 4.—A conference of leading men of British Columbia with the idea of forming a "farmers' body" similar to the Farm Industrial Council, was advocated in the legislative assembly Tuesday by Dr. J. Allen Harris (Lib., South Okanagan).

The suggestion came at the conclusion of Dr. Harris' address in reply to the Speech from the Throne during which he described the present economic conditions as a chemical resolution instead of a depression.

The main function of this council, Dr. Harris believed, would be to see how agriculture could help industry and how industry could help agriculture. Such a body could obtain real information about forests, fisheries, and mines, through various sub-committees connecting industrial activities and which would keep the permanent council informed of what is taking place elsewhere.

1,754 Taken On R.C.M.P. Force

OTTAWA, March 4—Total number of officers and men taken on the force of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police during the calendar years 1932 to 1935 was 1,754, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons Tuesday. Of this number 23 were officers and 1,731 men.

In the return it was stated the total of 1,754 included officers and men absorbed by the R.C.M.P. from provincial police forces and from the preventive services on land and sea. The entire quota of officers came in this way, while 746 men were thus absorbed.

ATTACKS ARE CONTINUED ON MANNING BILL

Criticism Strong From Opposition and Sections of Government

Attacks directed against the bill being sponsored by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, to license trademens and grant certificates, which commenced on Monday, were continued in the legislature on Tuesday. Criticism came not only from opposition benches, but was very strong from sections of the government side, with E. P. Foster, S.C., Didsbury, very forcibly opposing it.

George H. Van Allen, K.C., and L. A. Giroux, Liberal, Grouard, were also strong in their opposition.

Mr. Van Allen stated if any organized labor had asked for the bill.

NO SPECIFIC REQUESTS

Hon. Mr. Manning replied that no specific requests from Labor organizations had been received, although individual members of Labor organizations had asked for it. The act had been drafted by government counsel, familiar with legal terms.

Mr. Van Allen was doubtful of the validity and declared it was bad in law.

"The minister replied that a large number of individual trades were in favor of some such regulation as this Act proposed. He did not favor hampering of trade.

S. A. G. Barnes, S.C., Edmonton, declared that the executive council should not be given power to legislate as the bill provided.

Rev. Roy Taylor, S.C., Pincher Creek, submitted that it was desirable that the town councils should be conferred with regarding granting of licenses.

CLUB HAD DEGENERATED

He instanced a case at Coleman where a social club had degenerated into a gambling place. Careful scrutiny of all licenses was urged.

Mr. Foster contended that if this Act was passed it would be necessary for all farmers operating tractors to have licenses. If a man wanted to change a tire he could not without risking three months' jail sentence.

"Why, we cannot build homes without having to get a flock of certificates," he said. He said it would be necessary to have a whole flock of certificates, one for carpentry work, one for brick-laying and a large number of men would be required to build one house.

WANT MEASURE SHELVED

Both Mr. Foster and Mr. Van Allen were for shelving the measure. Hon. Mr. Foster agreed to delay it a week and Mr. Van Allen was for holding it for a year. However, in the end progress was reported and the act will be discussed in the agricultural committee.

Strong defence was taken by Mr. Van Allen to the penalty fee of $10 for each day a man worked without a license, if the penalty was out of all reason, he contended, and the average worker could not afford to pay. The maximum penalty, he said, should be $10.

S. H. Fee, S.C., Sedgewick, declared those who drew up the Act were not familiar with conditions in the country and restrictions in the bill were growing to such an extent that a force of fifty thousand men would be needed to build a house.

STRONG DEFENCE

The Minister put up a strong defence of his Act. He did not agree with Messrs. Foster and Fee that individual motorists could not change their tires or that they could not build their houses. The Act did not apply to individuals, but only when they hired themselves out. He did not think it would be necessary to have separate boards for each classification.

NEW POWER AGREEMENTS

TORONTO, March 4.—Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck, in the course of a speech detailing "threats" against Ontario government for its action in cancelling power contracts with four Quebec companies last December, announced in the legislature last night that new contracts had been signed into with the Gatineau and Maclaren-Quebec power companies.

Negotiations "are now concluded" were started even before Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn announced cancellation, which Mr. Roebuck said was delayed because of "threats of reprisals which we received from certain persons in the province of Quebec," and because the hydro commission's eastern Ontario system was in a vulnerable position should be cut off.

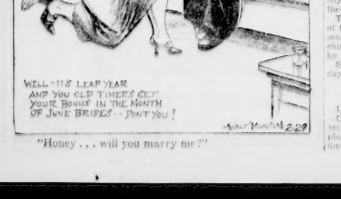

The Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

When vultures or buzzards are seen circling about over some dead body, it is generally believed that the bird located this food by smell. This is not true, for they cannot smell this far away. They locate it by sight. Most birds have a poor sense of smell, but a remarkable eyesight. In some birds the visual acuteness is 100 times as great as in man. This is why a bird can see a tiny insect at 100 yards, while man could not see it at a few feet.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER IN PUBLIC SERVICE

SECOND SECTION — EDMONTON, ALBERTA—WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1936 — PAGE NINE

LOAN COUNCIL AGREEMENT IS MADE PUBLIC

Will Be Necessary for Province to Agree Before Money Available

Unless provinces are agreeable to placing themselves under provisions of the proposed Dominion loan council they will not be able to gain guarantees in the future, Hon. Charles Cockroft admits in information brought down in the legislature at the request of D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader.

The information was adduced when Mr. Duggan asked Hon. Mr. Cockroft to outline terms of the Dominion government proposal regarding guarantees covering new capital and refunding requirements of the province.

In his reply, Hon. Mr. Cockroft states that refunding was discussed at the December Dominion-provincial conference on Jan. 13 and 14.

At this meeting, states the provincial treasurer, two clauses were agreed to, as follows:

1. That the Dominion guarantees given in support of provincial borrowings should be governed by a loan council and be backed by collateral in the form of pledges of provincial subsidies payable from the Dominion treasury and other specific provincial revenues.

2. That constitutional amendments should be initiated to empower the provinces to pledge such security and to give the Dominion power to act in the event of default.

3. That for each province requiring Dominion guarantees, a loan council should be set up consisting of the minister of finance and the provincial treasurer of that province, with the governor of the Bank of Canada acting in an advisory capacity and that all future borrowings should be subject to the approval of the council.

MUST AGREE TO GET MONEY

Provinces not desirous of placing themselves under the proposed loan council would not be able to obtain Dominion government guarantees, states the information.

Mr. Duggan also sought information on the contemplated refunding plan, which would embrace the entire provincial public debt and whether it would be done in one operation or would be limited to refunding maturing obligations.

Replying to this, the minister said that the extent to which any refunding scheme would operate, would depend on the decision of the proposed loan council after the careful consideration of the financial condition of the province and ability to pay existing obligations.

In other information brought down, Hon. Mr. Cockroft stated that savings contributed to the amount of $9,414,468.16 were on deposit on the day payment of same was suspended and since that time only $116,419.71 worth of deposits has been made. Certificates to the value of $58,540 have been paid out due to the various circumstances on the part of certificate holders.

It is also stated that annual interest on both term and demand certificates has been met to date, with the exception of accrued interest for periods less than one year with respect to certificates presented for redemption but not paid.

MOTOR HOGS TO GET CHECK

Violation by city motorists of traffic by-laws probably will lead to an official check-up in the immediate future, it was learned in well-informed circles on Wednesday. Pedestrians of late have found that traffic signals are not being observed to the extent they should and motorists have shown a tendency to "hog" the traffic arteries.

In an interview on Wednesday, one resident complained that he had been nearly knocked down on Tuesday evening by a motorist failing to obey stop signals.

When policemen are not in sight there has been violation of the light signals at Jasper and 101 street.

Another practice has been at intersections of Jasper and other streets. Motorists coming onto or crossing Jasper fail to stop or else get themselves half-way across the marked off pedestrian passage and then stop, thus blocking for the time being pedestrian's progress.

These features, it is understood, will be checked by officialdom.

Committee Asks for Recommendations Designed to Increase Sales of City-Owned Properties.

Two offers for the operation of the city land department by private real estate companies were placed before the civic finance committee Tuesday and while they were not definitely rejected, aldermen did not favor the idea of handing over the control of one of its departments. The offers were referred to commissioners for a detailed report, while the committee also asked for recommendations designed to increase sales of city-owned properties.

Real estate men placed propositions before the committee were Percy Herring and W. B. Matthews, who submitted a joint offer, and the firm of Magee and McRae.

AGGRESSIVE POLICY

Both parties were strongly of the opinion that land sales could be boosted if the city adopted an aggressive policy. It was claimed that the department should not wait for prospective buyers to come to the Civic Block but should go out and sell properties. It was further stated there was a "buyers' market" at the present time, and that prices on city property should be reduced to bring them more within the reach of the average buyers' pocketbook.

The Herring-Matthews offer is briefly this: Parties would form themselves into a company to handle all city property transactions on a five per cent commission on all sales. The company would also be paid five per cent of all city rents collected, and would also receive 10 per cent of the cost of all repairs made up to the amount of $35 each. Repairs exceeding this figure would have to be authorized by the city.

FLAT PRICE

Magee and McRae offered to handle all departmental transactions at a flat price of $600 a month, it being contended that this proposition would save the city $5 000 a year. T. S. Magee spoke to this proposal.

Speaking to the Herring-Matthews plan, Percy Herring told the committee it would save the city $4,000 a year in the operation of the land department. He declared that property sales could be increased to a large extent if an aggressive sales policy were adopted. Mr. Herring further stated that in his firm tast year he had done double the business recorded by the city land department.

CUT PRICES

"You've got to use your imagination and go out and sell property if you ever hope to get rid of it," he said, suggesting that flat prices be reduced to give impetus to property transactions.

While aldermen were opposed to letting a private company take over control of the land department, they admitted that immediate steps would have to be taken to increase sales.

TRUSTEES DEBATE RETURN TO EXAMS

A return to the examinations system in city schools was necessary, A. E. Ottewell, chairman of the Edmonton public school board, said at a meeting of the school management committee, Tuesday night.

G. A. McKee, superintendent of schools, stated that examinations had not been abolished and marks placed by recommendation on class work but that recommendation had been used to a great extent in promotions.

"We are still in the throes of an anti-examination chinook and we will have to sneak up to it under a different name," Mr. Ottewell said.

Discussion of sub-normal pupils occupied much of the meeting time and a recommendation was submitted by Dr. C. B. Willis, director of guidance, that such pupils be placed in separate classes. The committee voted to have the superintendent and director of guidance look into the practicability of putting these pupils in handicrafts and practical arts.

"These children must be trained against anti-social tendencies," Dr. Willis said, "because it colors their emotions if they are kept happy at their work and thus keeps them out of trouble."

Mr. Ottewell suggested that an intelligence quotient of 50 per cent be the ratio below which pupils would be segregated. An "intelligence quotient" is arrived at by dividing a pupil's mental age (determined by tests) by his chronological age.

CALGARY ASKS AMENDMENTS TO CHARTER

Municipal Law Committee Hear Several Protests

In spite of vigorous protests by E. D. Arnold, Calgary barrister, who stated he represented many taxpayers, the legislative municipal law committee on Wednesday approved of the amending bill to the Calgary city charter. This bill gives Calgary the right to continue to assess land at 100 per cent of its fair, actual value and buildings at 50 per cent.

Other amendments to the charter relating to assessment matters also were protested by Mr. Arnold so strongly that Mayor Andrew Davison declared it was his duty to advise the committee that instead of Calgary being harsh in its treatment of delinquent taxpayers, as suggested by Mr. Arnold, the city, in fact, was most lenient.

Mayor Davison said that of the hundreds of pieces of improved land which had reverted to the city by way of provisional title for non-payment of taxes, the city had placed a purchase price on these properties on the basis of 100 per cent of the actual value so that speculators would not be able to take advantage of tax sales to deprive delinquent taxpayers of their home properties.

The original amendment which dealt with the right of the property owner to appeal against city assessments, was submitted by the Calgary delegation in favor of another amendment, approved by the city council last Monday, which will give the property owner the same right of appeal from any assessment adopted by by-law, as in the case of an assessment by the assessor.

In protesting the charter amendments dealing with assessment, Mr. Arnold gave several instances in which he declared that the unfair value had been placed on certain properties in the eastern section of Calgary and that despite appeals to the board of revision and to the provincial appeal board, the assessment remained unchanged.

Trochu Farmer Is Found Dead

TROCHU, March 4—Thos. Henry Postlewaite, aged 54, bachelor farmer, seven miles southwest of Trochu, was found dead in his shack by his neighbor, William Rich, who lives across the road, Tuesday. Rich got word of trouble at about 7.30 p.m., Monday, and, not seeing him around feeding stock on Tuesday, walked over at noon and found him lying dead near his bed.

He reported the matter to Coroner Dr. Thomas Sawdon, at Three Hills, and R.C.M.P. at Trochu, who found that Postlewaite came to his death by an attack of heart failure. Postlewaite was found lying on the floor, ready for bed. The lamp was still lit on a chair near the bed.

Three brothers and a sister are residing at Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire, Eng. He came to Canada in 1908, homesteading at his present farm. Burial will take place at Three Hills at 3 p.m. Thursday. The funeral will be conducted by E. Fortier, of Trochu.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

When the first breath of spring played briefly over the province a few days ago (and then the snow reappeared) agriculturists of all kinds began to lay plans for the coming season.

Farmers pondered over the serious question of what grains they would grow and their thoughts dwelt with keen concern on the possible state of prices when they send their products to market next autumn. Horticulturists, professional and amateur, debated ways and means to turn their floral productions into prize-winners at the 1936 shows.

"Through what agencies can the quantity and quality of agricultural and horticultural products be improved?" the Inquiring Reporter asked.

HAROLD McLAUGHLIN, farmer, Spruce Grove: "After seven years' experience with commercial fertilizer, I am convinced that its use is bound to be beneficial to any permanent system of farming. It tends to maintain soil fertility, helps to control weeds and aids the crop in resisting diseases and adverse weather conditions (except hail."

DAVID W. EVANS, grain elevator superintendent: "Buy government seed wheat and use phosphate fertilizer."

CYLDE C. GILLIES, farmer, South Edmonton: "First of all, good seed. Then well-prepared land. I believe in the use of commercial fertilizer. Treatment of seed to control disease will be very important this year."

CHARLES ELLET, master farmer, South Edmonton: "It's going to be a hard job to get good seed wheat this year. It's very scarce. Well prepared land and use of commercial fertilizer will lead to good crops."

* * *

RALPH F. BLACKMER, farm lands, B. M. E. Evans and Company: "Good seed, proper cultivation and commercial fertilizer had the largest yields and finest quality wheat which, in the end, produces profits. During the last few years I have found that the use of commercial fertilizer is of estimable benefit in the practice of good farming."

Police Court

Olive Wagner was sentenced to six months imprisonment by Magistrate A. H. Gibson, who found guilty of "rolling" Melvin Agnew, who missed $30 from his shirt pocket after he had picked her up late Saturday night and gone with her to an east end rooming house.

"The circumstances are not very creditable to either party," the court observed when sentence was passed.

As the girl left the court in a flood of tears she shouted at Asplund, "You'll be sorry, you—"

Further remand to June 30 was given William Krause who was convicted of obtaining $190 by false pretenses from the city relief department. He has supported his family since the conviction and stated he was endeavoring to repay the money.

Joseph Simon, charged with receiving a stolen khaki coat, received an adjournment to Monday.

Rivers of the United States carry approximately 800,000,000 tons of earth into the sea annually.

The Canadians left Edmonton Wednesday morning for Calgary where they will play Calgary Bisons, Alberta junior hockey championship, Wednesday night. There were 19 in the party.

CITY REQUESTS POWER PRICES FROM COMPANY

Acting on instructions from city council, commissioners have invited the Calgary Power Co. to submit prices for the supply of power to Edmonton in cases of emergency. This action is the result of the city council's recent decision to reject the company's interconnection offer and to ask the power firm to quote a price for standby service only.

While the city favors a mutual standby arrangement, under which the city and company would supply each other with needed power in case of emergency, W. L. Parlee, K.C., company's counsel, informed council Monday night that such an agreement would not be profitable to the Calgary Power Co., and that the city can draw on clients would be prepared to consider it.

Mr. Parlee also stated that in the event the city decline deciding against an interconnection agreement the company planned to remove the additional power equipment from Edmonton.

CITY FAVORS REFUND PLAN ON BOND DEBT

Provincial legislation providing for the refunding of bonded indebtedness should also give Edmonton and Calgary the right to join with the government in any refunding measure, Mayor Jos. A. Clarke, K.C., told the legislature's charter amendments committee when it dealt with Calgary's proposed amendments, Wednesday morning. The refunding proposal was tabled for further consideration.

Edmonton's charter amendments are scheduled to be considered by the committee Thursday.

Calgary suggested to the government that the city be given the right to join in the refunding scheme through application to the board of public utility commissioners. Mayor Clarke opposed this, the view that such a step was unnecessary and that province itself could give the city necessary power through the government's proposed legislation.

LACOMBE AGRIC. DIES SUDDENLY

LACOMBE, March 4.—Prominent farmer of this district, Charles Abbott, 61, died suddenly Tuesday night from a heart attack, while pumping water on his farm.

Mr. Abbott was former president of the Lacombe Agricultural Society and was a member of the provincial Alberta cattle board for the Dominion Marketing Act. He was the first to bring heifers and calves from the southern part of the province for fattening. He came here 25 years ago from Iowa.

His widow, Mrs. Agnes Steve, who farms here, are survivors.

Train Delayed By Snow Slide

Canadian National's No. 2 Continental Limited, eastbound, arrived in Edmonton two hours and 20 minutes late Tuesday night, having been held up by a snow slide in the mountains west of Blue River, B.C. Delay in the train's schedule was the only harm caused by the slide.

Husky Thieves Leave Big Hole

Husky juveniles are suspected of theft of a manhole cover, 22 inches in diameter from the Northwestern Utilities, Ltd. gas station at 112 avenue and 92 street, Monday night. Value of the stolen cover was not great but it left a big hole in the company's property.

SOCRED KING'S PRINTER GIVES TRADE TO EAST

Abe Snitka Chiselling Albertans is Charge of Paper Men

The fattest order that the provincial government can place with wholesale paper houses and stationers — school examination supplies valued at $4,100—is in danger of being sent east, it was learned by The Bulletin Wednesday.

Executives of Alberta wholesale paper and stationery houses, fear that King's Printer Abe Snitka will send the order out of the province unless they meet his discount demands.

FACTS AND FIGURES

One executive with headquarters in Edmonton, acting as spokesman for the trade, went to his files Wednesday morning and produced facts and figures showing that the King's Printer as a pe ron of the eastern sweatshops, and as the wielder of a boycott-threat club being swung to gouge juicier discounts from Alberta's paper supply houses which have already been beaten down to extend discounts up to and over twenty per cent.

"We have met with threats to place government orders in the east," explained the paper and stationery executive. "Since the Social Credit government came to power the pressure has become severe. Since August, orders have been pouring east steadily."

"We can't meet the eastern price because of higher wages and a full working year in the west, and Snitka is using that to extract exorbitant discounts."

CHISELS MORE

"Discounts of up to and in some cases over 20 per cent were given the Alberta King's Printer and then we received our orders, rubber stamped by Snitka's assistant, J. Coats, with this dictatorial decree: 'Discounts required' — and five per cent will be deducted from your invoice subject to payment of the account within 30 days."

Alberta's wholesale paper houses and stationers have made representations on numerous occasions in an effort to stop the flow of tax money to eastern houses; but each time Snitka was non-committal.

EASTWARD, HO!

Orders continued to go east and Snitka made it plain that they would continue to do so that way unless the Alberta trade thumbed under to his exhorbitant discount demands. Last autumn the 20 per cent was granted; Albertans in the paper supply business bowed their heads to what they termed further "chiselling" of the Social Credit government, which promised during the campaign to foster provincial trade.

JUICY ORDER

The order which is slated to go east unless Snitka can beat the Alberta houses' prices down to those prevailing in the east, where sweating conditions exist and a 54 hour week of less than 35 mills enjoyed, in addition to employees being worked part time, consists of:

138,000 envelope, $884.
70,000 envelopes, $700.
Letterhead envelopes, $400.
4,000 envelopes, $140.
Other items, $2,200.

The "other items" are drawing paper, foolscap and cross-section paper — all supplies for the final examinations for Alberta school children in June.

"All this material can be and should be supplied by western paper houses," said the paper supply house executive. "But it is not being supplied by Alberta concerns, and since August most paper orders for the government have gone into Ontario and Quebec."

GOV.-GENERAL TO VISIT CITY IN SEPTEMBER

J. MacKinnon, M.P. for Edmonton West had with the Governor General, who expressed his pleasure at being able to take the trip and stated that he was anticipating his visit to this section with keen delight.

PROTEST OVER SHIFT RULING IS SUPPORTED

Protest against giving junior motormen a share of day work, as ordered by city council, was supported by the majority of members of Local 569, representing the senior operators, at a strike vote taken by the union Tuesday, it was learned Wednesday.

The ballot was taken to comply with provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, which provides that a strike vote must be taken before a union can apply for a board of arbitration on a labor dispute. It is understood that the senior motormen do not plan to take strike proceedings, the vote being taken simply for the purpose of giving the union power to apply for a board.

Prospectors To Attend Farewell Dinner Tuesday

Farewell dinner for miners and prospectors who plan on leaving soon for the northern mineral fields has been given by the Edmonton North West Prospectors Association in the Shasta cafe next Tuesday, commencing at 6:30 p.m. President J. D. Nicholson will occupy the chair.

All members of the association and their mining and prospecting friends are invited to attend the gathering. A good program of entertainment has been arranged, and it is expected that a large number of those who will leave shortly for the north will take this advantage of getting together before they start their journeys.

During the manufacturing year ended September 30, 1935, British passenger car production increased 20.9 per cent over the same preceding period.

PROPAGANDA BY PRINCE ALBERT IRKS CHAMBERS

Opposition is Voiced to Any Change in Northern Mail Contracts

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the Edmonton Chamber of Mines are discussing what action will be taken in regard to stories appearing in a Prince Albert newspaper and widely circulated in Saskatchewan and the north, which give the impression that Prince Albert is closer than Edmonton to Goldfields.

There is a definite agitation in Prince Albert to have mail contracts between Edmonton and Goldfields cancelled and to have these contracts replaced by a Prince Albert-Goldfields service.

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Mines point out that Edmonton government maps show the distance as the crow flies to be the same from both Edmonton and Prince Albert to Goldfields.

The fact that train service to Waterways, airmail service to Chipewyan and Goldfields and radio station at these points are already in existence is a point in Edmonton's favor, the Edmonton Chamber point out.

A circularization of mining men in the north, including company managers, indicates strong opposition to changing the present arrangements connecting Edmonton to Goldfields.

The stand taken by the Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Mines is that service later by mail service from Prince Albert to Goldfields will be established but that the present service keep to the area between Edmonton and Goldfields should not under any circumstances be discontinued.

WARM, BUT NO FLOWERS YET

Wednesday brought Edmonton's third day of "unofficial spring," following on the "hot" days of last Saturday and Sunday.

It never got cold Tuesday night, the lowest the mercury could reach was 20 above at 9 p.m. and by 9 a.m. Wednesday it was back at 29 above, with a forecast of continued fair and mild. It should reach past 40 above before 3 p.m.

Up in the near north it was a different story. Peace River, the real old Fort Vermilion, the "ice-box" of Alberta, as usual showed substantially lower readings. The rest of the province was breathing deeply of the soft sweet air of spring. Vermilion had a 15 below zero reading.

The Peace River bloc points enjoyed temperatures up in the thirty aboves.

Wanless Rink Tied For Second Slot In Brier Competition

British Columbia Leads With Three Wins—Six in Second Place

TORONTO, March 4. — A curling foursome from British Columbia fired its first challenge in Macdonald's Brier trophy history here yesterday and took the lead in the Canadian championship bunspiel.

All alone at the head of the 10-rink brigade from every province, the British Columbians scored two victories on the second day of round-robin title play to lead with three straight wins and no defeats. Six rinks were tied for second place with two wins and one defeat. They were Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Northern Ontario and New Brunswick.

British Columbia, entered for the first time, upset Quebec 12-11 and New Brunswick 14-8 Tuesday while such outstanding favorites as Manitoba and Alberta suffered defeats. Ken. Watson's Winnipeg Strathcona, Manitoba challengers, conquered Alberta 14-6 in the morning but were trounced by Northern Ontario in the afternoon, 10-6.

Bill Whalen, Vancouver veteran who learned his curling in the area zones of Fort William and Winnipeg, piloted the British Columbia entry. His son, Bill Jr., was vice-skip. Between them they outshot Quebec and New Brunswick consistently to pull out in front of the pack.

Down two stones at the end of the fourth end in their battle with the previously-undefeated New Brunswick four, the Pacific coast entry rallied and held their opponents to three for the remaining eight while they scored 11 themselves. They clinched the verdict on the 10th and 12th ends, scoring threes each time.

They started none too strong against Quebec either and were three points down after nine ends. A four-end on the seventh and a three-end on the 10th changed the match from defeat to victory.

In the morning affair Manitoba handed the Alberta team from Edmonton its first defeat of the 'spiel. They were never in danger after scoring twos on the first and third ends.

Ontario's rink from Sarnia, after a disastrous start against Manitoba yesterday, won both matches. In the early game the Sarnia four defeated Prince Edward Island 17-10 and in the third round whipped Quebec 19-3.

After losing 11-8 to New Brunswick in a second-round play, Saskatchewan rink came back in the third round to whip Nova Scotia 16-6. The Saskatchewan four came from Regina with Les Youngson as skip. They have lost one game in the three played.

Alberta, after losing a morning match to Manitoba, defeated Prince Edward Island 16-8 in the third round. The easterner rink won just as many ends as the Alberta four, but did not make as high scores. Alberta is represented by the C. Wanless-skipped foursome.

Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Quebec have yet to win a game. Nova Scotia, besides losing to Saskatchewan in third-round play, was edged out by Northern Ontario 11-10 in the second round.

Prince Edward Island lost to Ontario in the second round and also to Alberta in the third round.

A crowded gallery is assured for the fourth-round match early today between British Columbia and Manitoba. Ian Shaw fourth-round games Nova Scotia meets Ontario, Prince Edward Island clashes with Saskatchewan, Alberta faces New Brunswick and Northern Ontario tries conclusions with Quebec. No play was held last night because of the annual banquet but there will be three rounds today and Thursday.

Leafs Use Strategy To Reach Amerk Cage

Toronto Maple Leafs here put on a bit of combination play close in to score against New York Americans. Pep Kelly, left, carried the rubber in. Goalie Roy Worters came out of his net to block the shot, slipped and went to the ice. Al Murray, Amerk defenceman, also piled up in trying to block the drive. As Murray, seen trying to pokecheck, reached for the puck, Kelly flipped a pass to Art Jackson, right, who drove it into the open cage. It tied the score, 1-all, but Amerks won the game, 4-2.

OTIS CLINGMAN IN MAIN EVENT GRAPPLE CARD

The squirm sweaters of the grunt and groan art will again be spilling themselves all over the Empire theatre mat next Friday, when Mike Cutcher offers his weekly wrestling card.

The lineup of grapplers who will perform here on Friday is sufficient indication that the show will be every inch as entertaining as those presented lately by the hard-working promoter.

On the headline event Otis Clingman, truly a top mat performer, will tangle with Klem Kusek, the "Mighty Mite" who packs a good amount of villainry in his wrestling tactics. This ought to provide a rousing bout, which will probably see Kusek take a good dose of bad-tasting medicine.

In a semi-windup feature of the card, Tex Hager and Bob "Bad Boy" Cummings will meet in a 45-minute limit affair. Both these middleweight wrestlers are popular performers with fans and their bout should turn in some classy moments of grappling.

In the other features event, Pat Meehan, British Empire amateur champion before he joined the pro ranks, will meet Ray Kotoneau of Chicago. The stocky Chicago bruiser is one of the few who have registered a win against Pat, and for that reason, their coming engagement is looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

Maurice DeBiek will have charge of the refereeing duties.

Pats and Pans

By BILL LEWIS

There was certainly no doubt about which was the best hockey team in Northern Alberta last night. . . . Many fans here, and along the Coal Branch, had maintained Luscar Indians could take the measure of any club they met in the provincial playdown trail—and their judgment was borne out by the result of Tuesday's game.

A. N. Scott's band of Indians, beat the Soops fairly and squarely, and it is difficult to find any argument as to why they shouldn't have won.

During the series, Indians played better hockey than did the Soops. . . . Possibly not much better but they did play a much more organized brand than did the Stuart-coached squadron—and therefore deserved the verdict.

Thusly, they proved their right to battle Coleman Canadians in the finals for the provincial championship.

Duke's Coaching Helps Them

Although they lost their mentor just before the series opened, there is no doubt but that Duke Keats' coaching helped them greatly against Superiors. . . .

Frank Coulson was appointed coach in the absence of Keats in the East and he carried on the style of play requested by the Duke. . . . In a wire to the Luscar management from Chicago yesterday, Keats said:

"Advise Coulson handle team, play strictly defensive game. Superior style, and say for me to get in there and fight for the Duke. Luscar has the best team and can win. Regards to all the boys. Wire winning score to Sherman Hotel, Chicago."

That the club did as Duke desired was shown both by their play on the ice and by ultimate result. . . . They stayed "in there" and fought, as he requested, and also showed him they had the best team by winning out at the finish.

There is a big hand coming to the Duke for the way in which he whipped the mining-town aggregation into shape for the series. . . . They played good systematic hockey in both their games here and showed the results of his coaching by capitalizing on every chance that came their way.

Visitors "Hot" Last Night

Last night, it was particularly noticeable that all of the Luscar sextet were playing as desired. . . . Throughout the three periods, they were playing their positions well, and never lost a chance that came their way.

Because of the fact they were never able to play on a big ice surface until the playdowns were reached, the Indians' victory was especially worth noting. . . .

They did everything that could be asked by their management and showed that big ice will be no handicap to them in playdowns for the provincial championship.

It is no easy task to switch from a style of play developed for a small ice surface to one which can be used to advantage on a big sheet, but Indians did it successfully, which is a credit to both the players and Duke himself. . . . Every local fan wishes them success against Coleman.

Joe Brown Likes The Old Land

Received an interesting letter yesterday from Joe Brown, former right-winger of Superiors, who is now playing hockey in England. . . . Joe likes it very much over there, as can be seen from a few excerpts from his letter:

"I had the luck to get off on the right foot from the very first game and seem to be getting my share of the goals. . . . I'm only hoping it won't change. . . . I've gained nearly 20 pounds since arriving in London and feel as fit as a fiddle.

"I believe hockey over here is just as good, if not better, than the senior amateur hockey in Canada. (Joe, how could you!). . . . Our last game of the season is May 1, so you can see I'll have plenty of hockey by the time the league closes.

"What did you think of the English team winning the Olympic games? . . . (Now, Joe, we're not saying anything about that). . . . "It came as a great surprise to me because an all-star team from our rink beat the English team with ease in several games before they left for Germany."

HOOP PLAY-OFFS START MONDAY

While the senior girls of the Commercial Basketball League have been having their fling in the Northern Alberta basketball finals, the junior teams and the McDougall have been marking time, but their turn at staging play-offs is about to materialize.

The first game of the play-offs will come this next Monday when the Mace and the Comets will start a two-game, total points to count series to decide who will furnish the opposition for the Meds. The latter have won the second half of the schedule without much trouble and have consequently been awarded the bye.

The schedule for the rest of the week at the McDougall gymnasium is as follows: Wednesday at 7 p.m., Varsity and the Imps in the second game of the two game total points series to decide who will play the Comets for the Collegiate basketball title. Friday at 7 p.m., the Comets for the Collegiate basketball game starting at 7 p.m.

JUNIORS OPEN FINAL SERIES CALGARY CITY

Northern and Southern Alberta's junior hockey champions will open their final series tonight at Calgary when Edmonton Canadians clash with Calgary Bowgers in the first of a best-two-of-three series for the provincial championship.

Canadians, winners of the Northern title as they eliminated South Side Athletics, will be defending the provincial title they won last season. They are given every chance by the local "experts" and although playing on foreign ice, they should turn in an impressive performance.

The Bangers on the other hand, underdogs throughout the league schedule, have proven themselves worthy champions, having eliminated the highly reputed Calgary Radios and Med cine Hat Tigers in their campaign to the top.

Canadians left for the southern city early this morning. They will play tonight and will return for the second game on Friday with the third, if necessary, being scheduled for Saturday night here.

BAY SIX BEATS CARDINALS, 4-1

Hudson's Bay pucksters, after being held to a 2-2 deadlock in the first game, drew first blood in the Independent Hockey League's playoff series as they defeated Cardinals by a 4-1 score last night.

The Bay team took a lead in the first period as Munro deuled the hemp for the only tally of the frame. Shaw, shortly after the middle session opened, put the Cards on even terms, but Reuter got Bays' second marker just before the period ended.

Lunde and Magee got the other Bay goals in the last period, getting one each.

Cardinals, however, were handicapped, as they had only seven players out and showed signs of weakening owing to the shortage of three starry players. They did give the Bay outfit a hard battle, however.

LINEUPS

Cardinals—Aldridge, A. Thiviers, I. Mann, W. Runge, Aykroyd, Shean, Shaw.

Bay — Smith, Graham, Weir, Fleming, Canty, Magee, Donald, Munro, Lunde, Reuter, Pike.

Referee—E. Mainyk.

DUSSELDORF, Germany, March 4.—Germany was unable to form a team to meet the Canadian hockey squad in an exhibition match here last night, so the Olympians were split into two teams. "Western Canada" defeated "Eastern Canada" 10-3.

Indians Eliminate Superiors Winning By Margin Of 2-1

Luscar Now Meets Coleman Canadians in Provincial Finals Which Open Here On Thursday Night

POPULAR HOCKEY CHAMPIONS

By JACK DEAKIN

Very soon now, Thursday to be precise, the hockey curtain will rise for the senior provincial final, and upon Luscar Indians and Coleman Canadians will shine the spotlight.

Our heroes in this playoff picture will be the tribesmen from the Coal Branch. The invading crew which, last night, eliminated Edmonton Superiors for their second triumph in three games.

Luscar's win was by a 2-1 margin, and with it they repossessed the Northern Alberta championship for the second time in three years of campaigning. Luscar therefore rightly advances into the finals against the highly reputed Coleman club, and that series opens here Thursday night.

WON TWO GAMES IN BITTER SERIES

Luscar started its winning drive to the northern title in the Coal Branch mining town, where they turned in a 3-0 victory. They invaded Superior home ice for the second game, which they lost 3-1, but had the driving power to continue into the finals, ending their series with the Soops with a second victory by 2-1.

Interest centering last night left little doubt as to which team was the rightful champion. They beat the Soops in practically every department. They were favorite winners, too, that is, if the cheers from the gallery gives any indication.

POPULAR VICTORY

Twenty-five hundred or so was the attendance, comfortably holding down their pews in the ideal weather. They experienced two moments of excitement, and pepped up only after Luscar had equalized mid-way through the second session, and then the game was productive of its best hockey.

For practically half of the game the teams battled upon these even terms, before Luscar, mid-way through the third period, countered its "million-dollar" marker. That third period tally proved a winning one, for during the last half of the third frame, Luscar played a stout defensive game and wavered only slightly before the desperate bid the Soops made to equalize.

Superiors, after scoring the first goal, played a strictly defensive game. Soops forced the Luscar club to carry the major part of the play and this they did in winning style.

GRAHAM GOT GOAL

Jimmy Graham, starry pivot who has done the major scoring for the Soops, rose from a sick bed to nearly turn in another winning performance for the Soops.

Graham, on a double assist from Paul Maher and Ralph Morgan, whipped the puck behind Goalie Bernie Gavin in the first period, and the cagey Graham produced a neatly finished marker.

The Superior goal came when Luscar was playing shorthanded as Atkinson drew a penalty. Graham polished off the Soop power play after Maher and Morgan had executed some good passing.

Up to that time the game had been ragged, both clubs playing cautiously. Luscar then carried the greater part of the play as Soops relied upon a sturdy defence.

PEPPED UP PLAY

Don Stuart in the Superior goal was forced to make several smart stops as Superior back-checking drew a couple of penalties in rapid succession near the end of the frame. He managed to survive the heavy bombardment until the period ended.

It was only after a couple of minutes in the second session that Luscar remained behind. After them Mike Onyehuk drilled a grand shot past Goalie Stuart. Mike took Ray Saunders' well timed pass on the left wing, sped in close and sent in a blistering drive that gave Stuart no chance of saving.

This equalizer pepped up the game. Superiors were forced to make a bid for at least another Brown.

Luscar Indians—Pow; Carver, Hills Gillies; Onyehuck, Shamlock, McVey, Stewart, Herriott, Aldridge.

Edmonton Superiors—Stuart, Watt, Lamothe, Stewart, Graham, Maher, Morgan, McSporran, Mavecely, Stewart.

Referee—Earl Overand.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Superiors, Graham (Maher-Morgan) 5:20. Penalties—Atkinson, Gavin.

Second period—2, Luscar, Onyehuck (Saunders) 2:00. Penalty—Carver.

Third period—3, Luscar, Kennedy (Stewart) 12:30. Penalties—Hills, Burns.

LUSCAR MEETS COLEMAN HERE IN PLAY-OFFS

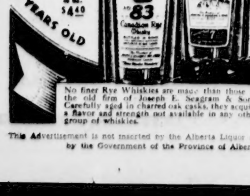

Thursday night at the local Arena, Luscar Indians and Coleman Canadians will clash in the first game of the Provincial Allan Cup finals, representing north and south of Alberta respectively.

Luscar earned the right to enter these Provincial finals when they won the Northern Alberta championship in a two out of three series with Edmonton Superiors. Luscar won the first game on their home ice by a 2-0 score and the third game at the Arena last night by a 2-1 score, to cop the series. Superiors took the second game by a 3-1 count.

Coleman Canadians by virtue of their victory over Drumheller Miners in two straight games, the first by 5-0 and the second by 3-1, will enter the coming provincial series strong favorites.

MAJOR HOCKEY PLAYOFF DATES, RULES ARRANGED

National League's Battle For Honors Opens On March 24

Stanley Cup Finals May Start April 2 Should the League Title Playoff End In Four Games or Less.

By GEORGE MacGUIRE

NEW YORK, March 4.—Playoffs for the National Hockey League championship and for the coveted Stanley Cup, emblematic of world's professional hockey supremacy, will begin March 24, governors of the league decided at an all-day session here yesterday.

On that date either Montreal Maroons or Toronto Maple Leafs, probable winners, now fighting it out for leadership of the Canadian group will be at home to either Detroit Redwings or Chicago Blackhawks, the two teams that can hardly be overtaken in the race for United States group honors. This will be the first game for the league title which will be conducted on a best-three-out-of-five basis.

MEET SAME NIGHT

Winners of second places in the rival groups will meet the same night in the first of home-and-home games, total goals to count, and likewise the third-place holders in the two divisions will clash in the first of a similar two-game series.

Second games in all three series will be played March 28. In the league championship series all games will be played to a finish, but in the second and third-place series overtime will be played only in the second game with the team scoring the first goal in the extra period being declared the winner.

The best-two-of-three series between the winners of the second and third-place jousts will open either March 28 or 29. The game night the championship-picking teams meet in their third tussle. The cup and league playoffs will continue on the 31st.

FINALS APRIL 2

If the cup semi-finals are decided in four games the league title in four or less. The Stanley Cup championship between the league titleholders and the winners of the second and third-place playoffs will start April 2, and proceed on April 4 or 5, 7 and 9.

Selection of referees and minor officials, to be neutral in all cases, was left to the discretion of President Frank Calder.

The league heads revised dates for two games, deciding to allow Montreal Canadiens and Montreal Maroons to play a match scheduled for March 21 on Sunday, March 15. This will be the first NHL hockey game ever played in Montreal on a Sunday night. The game between Chicago Blackhawks and Maroons, postponed from Jan. 28 on account of the funeral of King George V, will be played at Montreal, March 21, thus allowing the playoffs to get under way on schedule.

BLAKE CLEARED

League magnates, after plenty of acrimonious debate, decided to take no action against Joe Blake, Montreal Canadiens wingman involved in a rousing joust at Detroit last Thursday and was permitted to play against New York Americans last night. The latter club incidentally was the only one not represented at the conclave.

However, the governors decided immediately to insert in the code a clause calling for the automatic fining of a player who, in other than the ordinary course of a game, swings his stick at an opposing player. The tax in the latter case will be $100 and a fine of $50 will be levied against any player who leaves the bench to skate out and participates in a disturbance.

CANUCK PROTEST

Canadiens protested the game in which Blake was given a match penalty for his part in the Detroit brawl, but later withdrew it, when no direct action was taken against the player at this time.

The only change in the league made in the playoff arrangements concerned the "semi-final" series between the winners of the second and third playoffs. These clubs will meet in a best-two-of-three clash wherever previously series had been conducted on a home-and-home, total-goals-to-count, system which proved unsatisfactory last year.

TOKYO, March 4.—Iro Yamashishi, who has borne the brunt of Japan's Davis Cup tennis campaigns for two years, has been given the No. one spot in Japan's national rankings for 1936. He also was rated at the top a year ago.

PLAY FINALS IN JUVENILE, MIDGET LOOPS

Edmonton's juvenile and midget finals are scheduled for the Arena tonight with Henry White's Maple Leaf juveniles and midgets meeting Edmonton Athletic Club's teams for the city championship.

The first game, between the midgets, will get underway at 7:30 o'clock with the second, between the juveniles starting at 9:00 o'clock, and both should produce some good hockey from those minor league clubs.

The Melnyk brothers, Eugene in the midget and Johnny in the juvenile, will referee the encounters, and both have been tested as able officials.

In the first games the Leaflan club won the midget encounter, while Edmonton Athletic Club took the juvenile clash and both produced some good minor hockey.

Tonight's games may or may not decide the issue as both series are best-two-of-three games.

CAMROSE SKIING ICE CARNIVAL TO START FRIDAY

CAMROSE, March 4—Twice postponed, the Camrose ski tournament and ice carnival is being definitely held on Friday and Saturday this week.

The provincial championship cross country ski race will be run on the 11 mile Camrose Battle river course on Friday instead of at Banff this year.

Thirty fancy skating performers of the Glenora club are being engaged for the ice carnival in the Camrose arena Friday evening. A kids' dog derby may be held Saturday morning. Ski jumping competitions will take place after 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon on the local 70 foot jump. Several Banff skiers have entered their names in the Camrose tournament.

MONTREAL, March 4.—Montreal Canadiens sped to a 3-1 victory over New York Americans here last night in a National Hockey League game.

Cooney Weiland, Boston centre, opened the game by scoring a 27-second goal. Gracie tied the score during the seventh minute and Maroons went ahead twice in the second period. Dave Trottier made the count 2-1 and after Bill Cowley tied it up for Boston, Gracie scored his second goal of the night after a neat bit of solo puck-carrying.

Trounce Pharm-Dents in Third Game of Close Series

Now, for the first time in six years, Meds hold the Interfac hockey championship. They will meet the Seniors next week to decide the Varsity hockey championship.

DOUG. GRANT TOP FAVORITE IN BADMINTON

WINNIPEG, March 4—A dark-haired young court dynamo, with the tread of a cat and the poise of a champion, Douglas Grant was back in badminton circulation today. His mission was the particular concern of a smiling young Irishman from Toronto, Rod Phelan, national singles titleholder.

A year's absence from shuttle wars has not sapped a power-paced game that carried the 23-year-old Haligonian to Dominion titles in 1933 and 1934. He ruled a favorite to repeat in the four-day Dominion championships starting here today.

The reaction of those who have watched the smooth-moving Winnipeg ace coast through club opposition in pre-tourney workouts was termed simple. The wonder of his mates was there should be any doubt as to the outcome when awards are made Saturday night.

Eastern sentiment, however, was solidly behind the Ontario star who ousted smart Bevvie Mitchell of Ottawa to annex top honors in 1935. He is given more than an even chance of reaching the final bracket.

Shuttle - smashing stars from many other points, however, remain as obstacles to be hurdled before the title-round is reached. They include Jack Underhill of Vancouver, former champion, George Roberts and Bob Penfold, brilliant Calgary duo, and Charlie Jones, Winnipeg southpaw stylist.

Stern opposition also looms for Miss Margaret Taylor, The dark-haired queen of the feminine field will be called upon Friday and all the power in her left forearm to win through one of the strongest arrays of talent to appear in a national tourney.

OTHER THREATS

In addition to an eastern galaxy of stars headed by Mrs. W. H. Wallace of Toronto, finalist with Miss Taylor last year, the fast-stepping Robertson sisters of Ottawa, 1935 doubles titlists, Marjorie Barrow and Marguerite Delage of Quebec, a potent threat is on hand from the west.

Mrs. Anna Rier Patrick of Vancouver always a top-flight contender, finalist with Miss Regina, dashing Saskatchewan champion. Barbara Mitchell of Edmonton Imperial, Alberta singles queen, and Mrs. Gordon Piri, Manitoba titleholder, are primed to make valiant bids for first places.

Series Deadlocked

REGINA, March 4—The Southern Saskatchewan senior amateur hockey playoffs are exactly where they started.

Weyburn Beavers and Regina Aces fought to a 1-1 overtime draw here last night in the second of a three-game series. The first game at Weyburn last night was also a 1-1 deadlock. The next game will be played at Weyburn Thursday, the teams shifting back to Regina Friday.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The New York Athletic Commission yesterday put the kibosh on reports of a May bout between Tony Canzoneri and Jimmy McLarnin with the proviso that Canzoneri defend his lightweight title against an outstanding contender to be approved by the commission.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Outfielder Tommy Thompson lashed out Boston Bees' first 1936 homer today when Manager Bill McKechnie sent his entire squad through a three-hour workout. The only absentees were Wally Berger and Hal Lee, both holdouts.

General Manager Bob Quinn, who tried to trade Berger to the Cards for Dizzy Dean, Medwick, said he could make no further efforts to get his stubborn outfielders into camp.

BUS SERVICE REFUSED FOR THREE AREAS

Informed that the proposal would mean an annual loss of approximately $5,000, the civic finance committee Tuesday turned down the application by Forest Heights, Cloverdale and Riverdale districts for a bus service in this area.

The route proposed was: 95 street and Jasper avenue, via East End bridge, through Forest Heights and Cloverdale to Jasper avenue and 100 street via the Low Level bridge.

Commissioners reported that if such a service were operated an immediate cash expenditure of $42,500 would be required, comprised of $20,000 for the purchase of two buses, $15,000 for garage and equipment and $7,500 for grading and gravelling which would be required on the proposed route. Annual deficit on operation on the number of passengers who would be carried was estimated at $5,500.

Destruction Of Seized Goods By Customs Opposed

OTTAWA, March 4.—Objection to the destruction of goods seized by customs officers was voiced in the House of Commons last night by A. A. Heaps (C.C.F., Winnipeg North) who was curious as to what happened to a small box of cigars he yielded up to an officer at Prescott, Ont., a week ago.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of revenue, said the regulations of the department were strict and as the law required destruction he did not think it was evaded. Mr. Heaps had his doubts as to whether such articles as cigars and whisky were destroyed or consumed by the officers but in any case thought goods should not be destroyed in this way when there were many place where they could be used.

The minister said he would consider a change in the law along the lines of Mr. Heaps suggestion.

TECHNICIANS' argot: "Trucking" usually means motor transportation of freight. In Harlem it's a dance. In the studios it means moving a camera across a set to follow the motion of players.

And "panning" a player doesn't imply uncomplimentary remarks. Instead, "panning" means pushing the camera toward an actor, beginning with a long shot and finally resolving on his face.

A "buttertly" is a gauze-covered hoop held before players in outdoor scenes to cut down intensity of the light. A "century" isn't a $100 bill, but an adjustable standard for holding light screens and shades.

You'll find no food in a studio "icebox"—that's the soundproof cover built around the camera. "Sink" isn't a kitchen term, either, but a slang contraction of synchronization. A "buzzard" is an unsatisfactory scene. A "canary" is an unidentified noise in the sound recording system.

HOW THEY GET "SINK"

Synchronization isn't accomplished in quite the manner you may have believed. That is, when a player on the screen opens his mouth to speak, the corresponding impression on the adjoining sound track is not opposite the picture showing the first lip movement—it's 19 pictures, or "frames" ahead.

This is done so it'll keep films from catching on fire. Two powerful lights penetrate the film when it is projected, one for the sound, one for the visual pictures. The lights are too hot to be operated together. But motion and sound are emanated from the screen at the same time, so everything comes out all right.

USEFUL "TOY"

The projection machine used for preliminary viewing of a picture would delight a child. It's called a moviola and provides images only an inch wide and little more than half an inch high.

Only one person can watch it at a time. The editor sits at a console and peeks through a circular lens as the film unreels at the normal rate of 90 feet a minute. The general impression is that of sitting in the last row in the top balcony of a theatre a mile long. Only clearer.

As the picture begins to be patched into something like final shape, it's taken into a regular projection room and reviewed on a full-sized screen. That's to permit critical comparisons of executives and yes-men.

BING CROSBY

"Chapayev" With Revolutionary Philosophy, Has New Screen Technique

Short, stocky, dark - thatched Norman Clavin, agent-at-large for the Soviet film distributors "Amkino," arrived in Edmonton today with a "message" which is carried in the film "Chapayev," which he brought with him.

"Chapayev," the story of the Soviet's heroes who helped beat back the White Russian armies in 1919, has smashed box office records in Winnipeg, Toronto and Vancouver, has been acclaimed in London and Paris; has had the New York critics lyrical in their reviews, even Walter Winchell committing himself to the declaration "Flicker directors sprinted to get a load of Chapayev, the Soviet Wow. The Russ gal is as fascinating as La Dietrich."

UNLIKE HOLLYWOOD

Soviet film studios, says Agent-at-large Clavin, are as far apart in methods as they are in distance from Hollywood.

For mob scenes in "Chapayev" no extras were paid $5 per day, but corps of men were drafted from U.S.S.R. collective farms and factories and paid their usual wages during the filming of the revolutionary epic.

STAR SYSTEM OUT

No stars are paid hundreds of thousands each year; no fat contracts are held and Russia's film elite do not drive 16 cylinder cars. They get wages not much better than the rank and file and are paid off in "Orders of Lenine."

"Recognition of their talent and the Order of Lenine are inspiration and reward enough for any Soviet actor," said Clavir.

GET TO BE MESSAGE

Pure entertainment cannot be had on the Russian screens without the usual "message." Soviet films are of the people, packed with life and realism, explained the agent; and for that reason all subterfuge is avoided, even make-up.

From three movie palaces one year ago, Soviet chiefs have stepped up their strength in the U. S. S. R. to 9,000 and foreign films can only be exhibited on a barter basis. Only American films to find universal favor are the Walt Disney Micky Mouse and Silly Symphony cartoons.

"Chapayev" is the story of a Soviet leader in the Ukraine during the bloody months following the Armistice. He finally sinks under the waters of a river under a rain of bullets from White Russian and Allied guns but his men sweep on the victory, avenge his death and sweep the counter-revolutionaries from the land.

"Chapayev" opens Thursday at the Rialto.

Who Wouldn't Dream?

Especially if he was in the shoes of Henry Fonda, the screen's latest romantic find, who is shown here as a young American songwriter who falls in love with, and marries, a little French girl, the glamorous Lily Pons, possessed of a divine singing voice as well as that come hither look in her eyes, and all that goes with it. The two stars are shown in "I Dream Too Much," the debut picture of the famed Metropolitan Opera star, which is showing at the Strand today for a three day run. It's a comedy, with music, and Lily Pons singing as only she can sing, and it gets four starred by the critics wherever it is shown.

MAN WHO SET SPEED MARK WITH BARNEY OLDFIELD IN 1902 GETS FIRST TICKET

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., March 4.—Norman Messenger, who clung precariously to the running board of "Old 999" back in 1902, wielding an oil can and pliers as Barney Oldfield established a world's automobile speed record of 60 miles an hour, suffered his greatest humiliation Tuesday. Given his first traffic ticket, he was sentenced to driver's school.

"I would rather pay a $1,000 fine," he pleaded before Traffic Judge John Fegan. "Barney Oldfield taught me to drive 32 years ago, and this is my first ticket."

To Judge Fegan, however, a right turn against a red light still remained a traffic violation, and Messenger must learn anew the rudiments of red lights and traffic regulations.

The Country Doctor

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DR. JOHN LUKE, country doctor of Moosejaw, Sask., just driven through in the little north woods settlement a murderous flight from a conference. He goes to Montreal to appeal to company officials to build a hospital in Moosetown.

Dr Luke's nephew, TONY, who flew to Moosetown with antitoxin, is still there, waiting until his plane can be repaired. Tony is much interested in MacKenzie's daughter of the lumber company manager.

In Montreal, company officials refuse to listen to the country doctor. Dr. Luke goes with his brother, DR. PAUL LUKE, to a medical association dinner. There, before the entire assemblage, he makes another appeal for the hospital.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

GREASY was really the one who suffered most in the second smashing of the plane-wing, when he had to stand and see the exulting MacKenzie slash it with an ax.

Tony was philosophical, and helped Greasy to get the repair job once again under way. Tony knew that a few more days in Moosetown would surely mean snow, then again, and there had been so much left unsaid between them. Despite MacKenzie's unreasoning rage, Tony knew he must see Mary—now. Meanwhile the damaged plane made as good an alibi as any. Greasy worked at the wing with concentrated fury, the now-frayed letter from his Montreal sweetheart sticking out of his jumper pocket.

Several days passed, and MacKenzie kept Mary close within their house. Tony began to fear that Greasy's furious energy would have the plane ready to fly before he could see Mary at all. Then, on the very night when Greasy triumphantly announced that "she's ready to fly again," Tony succeeded in meeting Mary.

"I must see you," Tony breathed. "Can't you get out tonight? We could go somewhere and talk, Mary! I have such a lot of things to say to you!"

"Things I want an awful lot to hear," she whispered back. "You can get out tonight. I'm supposed to go over to Aunt Tilda's with a basket of things. I'll go, but afterward—I'll meet you here—say about eight?" And so it was innocently enough arranged.

Eight-thirty found things booming at a hilarious party at the Skidroad, a sort of bucolic night club and rendezvous set up in a farmhouse on the edge of Moosetown. The front rooms had been remodeled into a dance hall, and a tinny piano was rattling out year-old jazz. Crude booths with tables inside them had been built along the walls. Lumbermen in checked wool shirts and heavy boots clumped on the dance floor with girls dressed in what they fondly imagined were evening frocks. The attempt at a gay atmosphere in the place achieved only a certain dismalness.

They were welcomed to the Skidroad by a blowsy host who was lovingly obsequious, and who installed them in the best of the booths. The sound of laughter and rough horse-play surged about them, but neither was really conscious of it. Tony ordered beer for himself, a lemonade for Mary. While waiting for their orders each strove to be gay, but without much success.

"Yep. Going out for sure tomorrow," said Tony with a casualness he did not feel at all. "Greasy's got the plane all fixed up again. You'll get to thinking that I make more farewell appearances than Harry Lauder."

Mary rose a little wistful as she answered him: "But Harry Lauder always comes back for one more appearance."

Tony nodded gravely. "And so will I," he said, "to take you away from here, Mary. I love you. You must have seen it the day we went up in the plane. Somehow I don't care a lick about Montreal, or my medical career, or—or anything without you. Will you marry me?"

Mary leaned closer, her head turning to his shoulder. Her voice was barely a whisper. "Say it again . . . Tony," she murmured.

Tony's voice gained resolution. "Will you marry me?" he asked again.

They fell, rather than consciously noticed, a sudden silence fall on the crowd on the dance floor. Then a whisper ran through the room. Piercing the murmur came a frightened remonstrance from the proprietor, "Please, boss, don't let's have no trouble here. I don't want no trouble, Mr. MacKenzie!"

Tony stiffened. He felt what was coming. He did not see MacKenzie contemptuously shove the proprietor aside, but he did see the livid face of MacKenzie as the latter approached, peering into booth after booth.

Tony placed his hand briefly over Mary's with a little squeeze of assurance. "Don't be frightened, dear," he said softly.

MacKenzie came to a halt at the end of their table.

"Stand up!" he said grimly, looking fixedly at Tony, and without a glance at Mary. The girl rose, glancing up in terror. "Ted, please!" she implored.

"Just a minute, now, Mr. MacKenzie——" began Tony, in a conciliatory tone. "There's nothing——"

"Stand up!" shouted MacKenzie, in a fury, his face purpling. He began deliberately to peel off a heavy coat.

Tony slid out of the booth quietly.

"Mary, maybe you'd better go," he said.

"Let her stay!" roared MacKenzie, stepping toward Tony, who gave ground, his eyes alertly on the advancing giant.

"I don't want to fight you," he said evenly. "You're Mary's father!"

MacKenzie swung a wild right. Tony drew back his head with a quick motion that revealed the experienced boxer, as the fist swished past his nose. "Somebody stop him!" he pleaded. "Grab him!" Tony side-stepped to avoid another whistling swing.

"Stand up and fight!" grunted MacKenzie. A quick glance told Tony he had been forced almost to the rear wall of the room. Shouts of "Yellow!" and "Fight!" came from the crowd which quickly encircled the two men.

"All right!" muttered Tony desperately. "You asked for it!"

He feinted, cat-like, with his left, and drew from MacKenzie the expected wild right swing. Tony put all his weight behind a lightning-like right hook that went home directly to the point of MacKenzie's stubby chin. MacKenzie stumbled backward, and fell twisting to the floor. Tony took two quick steps toward the fallen giant.

But he did not get up. Two men leaped to his side, and began assisting him to his feet. A buzz of excitement swept the crowded room. None of them had ever seen MacKenzie down before.

Tony stepped quickly into the booth where Mary stood, a trembling witness to the short encounter.

"I'm sorry this happened," said Tony hurriedly. "I'm getting out. But I love you, and I'm coming back! Understand? If you think I'll do any good, tell HIM I love you, too!"

Quickly they kissed, and then Tony was gone, striding rapidly to the front of the room and out the door. Mary sat helplessly at the table, her face buried in her hands, sobbing.

Helping hands heaved MacKenzie slowly to his feet. He staggered groggily, and clutched his left arm as his face went white with pain. "My arm!" he said shortly. "Broke it when I fell!" MacKenzie made his way to the booth where his daughter still sat.

"Get home!" he said between clenched teeth.

"Oh, Dad," began Mary, lifting a tear-stained face.

"Get home!" repeated MacKenzie. Together father and daughter walked through the circle of wide-eyed lumbermen and their girls, and out into the night.

Tony wasted no time. Knowing that more trouble could be expected of MacKenzie, he went directly home to Dr. Luke's, and ascertained that Greasy had finished his job, that the plane was ready to fly. Then he turned in, his plans made.

When Constable Jim Ogden, early next morning, appeared in front of Dr. Luke's house, Tony had been up and around for a long time. His last-minute inspection of the plane was already completed. And as Ogden approached, fingering a folded white paper, Tony slipped out the back door.

It was Nurse Kennedy who opened the door for the constable. Tony had seen to it that she came over to get him an early breakfast.

"Know where I can find Tony?" the constable asked, with elaborate casualness.

"Surely. Right here. Inside. Eating sausages." Nurse Kennedy was cordiality itself.

Ogden entered, nervously fingering the warrant in his hands. From the back yard came a sudden explosive roar. Constable Ogden was no fool. He leaped for the back door, waving the warrant in his hand. At the edge of the pasture lot adjoining the barn stood Tony's ship.

"Stop! In the name of the law!" shouted Ogden, running toward the plane. Tony's answer was to "gun her the gun." The hurricane from the propeller blew the warrant from Ogden's hand and he ducked quickly as the wing swung around and the plane straightened out with a rush down the pasture lot.

Tony turned the plane at the far end of the field to get into the wind and now came nothing back directly toward the pair. With a roar he put the plane's nose sharply up, circling directly over their heads with a gay wave of the hand over the edge of the cockpit.

All Moosetown rushed to windows as the unaccustomed roar of the plane was heard. The plane seemed reluctant to leave, but circled continually. Then the wide-eyed villagers saw the plane dip suddenly and zoom down over the house of MacKenzie.

Few of them saw a tiny hand waving from an upper window. And none of them heard MacKenzie, his arm in a sling as he sat at breakfast, shouting as the plane zoomed overhead.

"We'll hang onto that warrant," he muttered to himself. "The young fool! He'll be back!"

Aussies Hope To Cop Davis Cup

SYDNEY, Australia, March 4. — Bright prospects of defeating the United States Davis cup team in the forthcoming American-zone matches have buoyed Australia's tennis crusaders to a fighting pitch.

"Our chances of beating the United States are the brightest in years," said Clifford Sproule, player-manager of the team. "All things being equal, our team should come out on top. This is our great chance."

Sproule has laid down rigorous training rules for the squad while on shipboard en route to the United States—and he means business.

Hockey Fathers Decide Protest Of Coast Clubs

NEW YORK, March 4—Much time was consumed at yesterday's meeting of National Hockey league governors in debating a proposal for two teams to barnstorm in Western Canada after the regular season closes.

Vancouver had protested the teams planned to play in a rink not under N.H.L. jurisdiction, whereas the minor league team in that city is under N.H.L. rules.

The hockey fathers decided that henceforth major league teams must confine their exhibition-game activities within rinks under major-league influence unless they are playing in cities in which there are no professional clubs.

Indoor Tennis

NEW YORK, March 4.—Gregory Mangin's stock rose bullishly as he cut down towering Dr. Eugene McAuliff in decisive fashion and entered the quarter-final round in defence of his United States indoor singles tennis championship.

Fully recovered from his recent illness, the three-times champion swarmed all over the former Fordham star in winning 6-2, 6-2.

Karle Schroeder, Sweden's foremost singles duelist, and Frank Bowden, rugged New Yorker, also won their third - round engagements. Schroeder disposed of Ed Jenkins, 6-1, 6-2, and Bowden eliminated Bill Cunningham, also New York, 6-1, 6-4.

Bashaw Hockey

BASHAW, March 4.—The Mirror hockey team won their first game of the season Monday night against Clive Juniors with a score of 4-3. Excellent team work gave Mirror a slight lead throughout the game. Penalties were plenty, each team having four to serve.

Guilty If Driving

LONDON, March 4.—"A man is entitled to be drunk in his own car so long as he does not drive it," said Magistrate Dummett at Bow Street police court where the charge against a motorist was dismissed when it was pointed out he was in the back seat when arrested.

Today's Markets

At Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, March 4.—Traders in the Toronto Mining share section displayed no inclination to bid prices up today and in the closing phase offerings were a little heavier than the market was ready to absorb.

Lower prices ruled at the close for Lake Shore, Dome and McIntyre, offsetting moderate gains for Hollinger, Teck Hughes, and Wright Hargreaves. Coniarum around 2.41 was up 7 cents.

Read-Authier, Pamour, Pickle Crow and McWatters held steady and lower prices were posted for Siscoe and San Antonio.

Ventures edged up a few cents to 2.37. Sudbury Basin, Noranda, Hudson Bay and Falconbridge were slightly higher.

Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, March 4.—Losses predominated on the Toronto Industrial share market today with trading on a comparatively small scale.

Nickel closed just above the 51 mark for a drop of ⅝. Pantepec at 5¼ held a gain of ¼-point. Losses of the minimum fraction were noted for British American Oil, Imperial and International Petroleum.

Walkers common posted a gain of ¾. Distillers Seagrams lost ⅝ and Industrial Alcohol A ⅛. Loblaw A, Canada Packers and Canners held to the up side. Canada Bread B, the Western Flour Milling issues and the Weston Stocks sold down.

Bell Telephone registered a gain of 1¼. Ford A dropped nearly a point. Brazilian was down ⅛.

At Montreal

MONTREAL, March 4.—Consolidated Smelters featured an otherwise quiet market during the final hour on Montreal Stock Exchange today when the price swung up to 251, highest since 1930 when it touched 280. It finished with a gain of about four points at 249⅞.

Nickel finished off about ⅜ at about 51⅛. Gains of the minimum fraction were shown by Noranda and Hollinger.

Canadian Hydro-Electric preferred spurted more than three points and small advances went up for Quebec Power, Southern Canada and Montreal. Light selling depressed Brazilian.

At New York

NEW YORK, March 4.—A late break in Chrysler stemmed the general advance in today's stock market, although scattered industrial specialties continued to exhibit firmness.

The motor issues gave way under profit taking, along with a number of other recent leaders. Support approximated 2,900,000 shares.

While some traders still considered the new tax program more bullish than bearish others were inclined to cash in their gains on the theory that a technical reaction was due.

Trade Mark Of Aspirin Sustained In Court Verdict

A warning is found in the judgment just given by the Exchequer Court of Canada at Ottawa, in an action brought by The Bayer Company, Limited, owner of the trade mark "Aspirin."

The Bayer Company brought action asking judgment of the Court restraining the defendant from infringing the trade mark by selling tablets as "Aspirin" which were not the product of The Bayer Company.

The judgment restrains the defendant permanently from putting out any of his own tablets as "Aspirin" or under any name so similar to "Aspirin" as to be confusing and awards The Bayer Company damages and costs.

WHEAT MOVES UP FRACTIONS

WINNIPEG, March 4.—Wheat prices advanced fractionally on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, responsive to good export demand and strength of foreign markets.

At the close, prices were ¼-¾ cent higher with May selling at 83½, July 84½ and October 84¾ cents a bushel.

Good export business was in evidence during the session, estimated at more than 1,500,000 bushels. Inter-market operations were on a very small scale. Offerings for the most part however were liberal and checked any further advance in prices.

Liverpool closed ¾-⅛d higher. Chicago prices held to higher levels during most of the session. Buenos Aires at noon was unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Spreads of 1⅛-¼ cent higher were shown in the cash wheat market. Further excellent buying in rye featured the coarse grain market.

BROOMHALL

CHICAGO, March. 4.—There has been a further decrease in wheat stocks in America. The total of 23,000,000 is now only 2,000,000 more than a year ago. Very little other grain is in bond in the U.S. Two more months of winter on the Great Lakes will probably see the end of the bonded stocks or they will be reduced to a minimum. The 4,700,000 bushels at Albany do not change at all and there is still some Canadian wheat at New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and the gulf ports, but none at Portland, Maine. Stocks of Canadian wheat in Canada and the U.S. now total 224,000,000 against 240,000,000 a year ago.

The Tremendously Tall Man
The Rather Short Man
The Substantial Man and
The Average Man

ALL COME TO THE MADE-TO-MEASURE SHOP

We never feel monotonous about our clientele in the Made-to-Measure Shop. Almost every one is different in size and we simply couldn't measure men properly for clothes in an off-hand way. It keeps us on our toes to satisfy everyone . . . but we do it!

It doesn't really matter to us if men are square, round or oblong, because we make every suit individually anyway . . . and we make all suits to fit perfectly, because every suit is tailored to a man's exact measurements.

Now and then a six-foot-six weighing about 275 pounds gets the better of us, because it takes so many yards of cloth to make his suit . . . but, then, we make up on the short men.

But that's really beside the point, for after all men don't come to the Made-to-Measure Shop to get quantity of cloth. They come to get clothes that are smart in style and fit . . . and that's what we give them!
